Providing easy access to sustainable bonds for the broader investment community is a great idea.

As a trader & intermediary in the USD & CAD fixed income markets for over 30 years, I see projects like this one as critical to the organic growth of liquidity.

And, as technology improves, investors are looking for easy access to additional product, deep solid markets & price transparency. This project will accomplish those initiatives & I see it as a win/win for the investor & the fixed income community.

I look forward to the launch at the end of this year.

Kudos to the TMX & to Robert Cattana & Rob Catani for their hard work on helping this forward.

Please feel free to reach out if you would like to discuss further.
