Plain language rule re-write project – Dealing with clients, Proposed Rules 3400-3900

Summary of the nature and purpose of the proposed Rule

On June 24, 2010, the Board of Directors (“the Board”) of the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada (“IIROC”) approved the publication for comment of proposed Dealer Member Rules 3400 relating to suitability requirements, 3500 relating to sales practices, 3600 relating to communications with the public, 3700 relating to handling and reporting complaints and internal investigations, 3800 relating to books and records, and 3900 relating to supervision (collectively referred to as the “proposed Rules”).

IIROC has undertaken a project to rewrite its rules in plain language. The primary objective of this project is to develop a set of rules that is more clear, concise and organized, without changing the rules themselves. In addition we have identified a number of rules that also require substantive revisions.

The new rules will be submitted to the Board and issued for public comments in 8 tranches. This tranche submitted to the Board and issued for public comments includes the following six sets of substantive change rules:

- (1) Rule 3400, Suitability;
- (2) Rule 3500, Sales practices;
- (3) Rule 3600, Communication with the public;
- (4) Rule 3700, Reporting and handling of Complaints, Internal Investigations and other reportable matters
- (5) Rule 3800, Books and Records; and
- (6) Rule 3900, Supervision

The above noted rules have been identified as requiring substantive revisions in order to:

- o eliminate unnecessary rule provisions;
- o clarify IIROC’s expectations with respect to certain rules;
- o ensure that the rules reflect actual IIROC practices; and
- o ensure consistency with other IIROC Dealer Member rules and applicable securities legislation.

Proposed Rule 3400 is a consolidation of the relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rules 1300, 2500, 2700, and 3200 that relate to suitability.

Proposed Rule 3500 contains relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rule 29 relating to sales practices.

Proposed Rule 3600 is a consolidation of the relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rules 29 and 3400 that relate to communications with the public.

Proposed Rule 3700 is a consolidation of the relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rules 2500, 2700, and 3100 that relate to complaints and internal investigations.

Proposed Rule 3800 is a consolidation of the relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rules 17 and 200 that relate to books and records.

Proposed Rule 3900 is a consolidation of the relevant requirements currently set out in IIROC Dealer Member Rules 18, 38, 1300, 1800, 1900, 2400, 2500, 2600, 2700, and 3200 that relate to supervision.

Issues and specific proposed amendments

Current rules

Other than the proposed substantive revisions set out below, the proposed Rules do not create any new obligations for Dealer Members and have been drafted to clarify the existing Rules with respect to dealings with clients.

Proposed rules

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3400, "Suitability", the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- Suitability of orders and recommendations: Current IIROC Dealer Member Rules require that each Dealer Member use due diligence to ensure that any order accepted from a client and any recommendation made to a client is suitable for the client. The obligation to ensure that orders and recommendations are suitable includes not only an obligation to ensure that the specific security is suitable for the client but also that the order type, along with the trading strategy recommended and/or adopted, as well as the account type, are also suitable for the client. As an example, the risk profile of a client who fully pays for a position in a specific security as a core long term holding is significantly different from the risk profile of a client buying the same security on margin, as part of a day trading strategy. For consistency with current IIROC expectations and Dealer Member practices, proposed Rule 3400 will clarify that in order to ensure suitability of an order or recommendation, the Dealer Member must also consider the suitability of the account type, trading strategy, order type and the method of financing the trade. [3402(2)]
- Suitability determination not required: Current Dealer Member Rule 2700, Part I (4) requires written waivers from permitted clients as defined in National Instrument 31-103 for the suitability requirement to not apply. The proposed clause 3405(1)(iii) will not require a waiver for any client that is a regulated entity as defined in Corporation Rules. This change is proposed so foreign entities that are the equivalent of Dealer Members will not require written waivers. [3405(1)(iii)]

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3500, "Sale practices", the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- Service fees - Current IIROC Dealer Member Rules require that each Dealer Member provide clients with a service fee schedule upon account opening and 60 days prior notice of any change to the service fee schedule. In order to codify current IIROC expectation and Dealer Member practices, proposed Rule 3500 will clarify that Dealer Members will not be subject to the above noted requirement when dealing with Institutional Clients. [3506(3)]
- Commission fees and advisory fees - Unlike the requirement for Dealer Members to provide a service fee schedule to their clients, the current Dealer Member Rules do not require Dealer Members to provide a commission fee schedule to their clients. For consistency with the requirement to provide a service fee schedule, proposed Rule 3500 will require Dealer Members to provide a commission fee schedule, or schedule of other advisory fees where applicable, to their clients upon account opening or 60 days prior notice of any change to the commission charge. An advisory fee schedule would include a notice of any fees applicable to fee based accounts. The requirement to provide a commission fee schedule will only be applicable where the Dealer Member charges a fixed (dollar or percentage) commission fee. Dealer Members will not be subject to the above noted requirement when dealing with Institutional Clients. [3505]
- Inside information - The current Dealer Member Rules state that any employee or Approved Person of a Dealer Member acting as a Director of a public issuer, in an underwriting or advisory capacity to a public issuer, has a fiduciary obligation not to reveal any privileged information to anyone not authorized to receive it until there has been full public disclosure of such information. For consistency with securities legislation, proposed Rule 3500 will be amended as follows:
 - Fiduciary obligation: The reference to fiduciary obligation has been omitted from the proposed rule. For consistency with securities legislation, the relationship has been categorized as a special relationship in the proposed Rule.

- Privileged information: The reference to privileged information has been omitted. For consistency with securities legislation, the information has been categorized as material non-public information in the proposed Rule; material non-public information refers to any material fact or material change that has not been generally disclosed.
- Recipient of information: The existing Dealer Member Rule prohibits the disclosure of privileged information to anyone not authorized to receive it. For consistency with securities legislation, the proposed Rule will state that the information can not be disclosed to anyone unless in the necessary course of business.

Based on the above noted changes, proposed Rule 3500 will clarify that any Approved Person, employee or agent of a Dealer Member who acts as a director to a public issuer, or in an underwriting or advisor capacity to a public issuer, is a person in a special relationship with the issuer and must not disclose any material non-public information about the issuer to any one, including any employees, agents or clients of the Dealer Member unless that disclosure is made in the necessary course of business. Proposed Rule 3500 will also clarify that when a Dealer Member, Approved Person, employee or agent of a Dealer Member has material non-public information about an issuer and discloses it to another Approved Person, employee or agent of the Dealer Member in the necessary course of business, then that person also becomes a person in a special relationship with the issuer and must not disclose any material non-public information about the issuer, unless in the necessary course of business. [3507(1) through (3)]

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3600, "Communication with the public", the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- Scope of obligations - Proposed section 3602 which deals with advertising requirements speaks only to the Dealer Member's minimum obligations and does not make reference to the obligations of Approved Persons in communicating with clients. The underlying expectation is that Dealer Members will ensure that their Approved Persons comply with the Rule. The proposed plain language Rules will include a separate introductory section which will clarify that Rules applicable to Dealer Members will also equally apply to Approved Persons, to the extent relevant. [3602]
- Guideline - The current IIROC Dealer Member Rule 3400 includes guidelines as to best practices in developing policies and procedures on research reports. The parts of Rule 3400 that are guidelines, rather than rules, have been removed and included in a Guidance Note accompanying the proposed new Rule 3600.
- Approval of policies and procedures- The proposed Rule will no longer require Dealer Member policies and procedures on client communications and analyst conflicts of interest to be approved by and filed with IIROC, however, Dealer Member policies and procedures will continue to be subject to the regular compliance review process.
- Record retention period: Current Dealer Member Rule 29.7(5) requires the retention of copies of all advertisements, sales literature, correspondence, and records of supervision for a period of 2 years from the date of creation in the case of advertisements, sales literature and related documents, and a period of 5 years from the date of creation in the case of all correspondence. Proposed Rule 3602(7) removes the retention periods specified in the current rule and refers instead to the retention periods set out in Rule 3800, Business Records and Client Communications. Specifically, section 3802 changes the retention period for advertising related materials to 7 years. [3602(7)]

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3700, "Reporting and handling of Complaints, Internal Investigations and other reportable matters" the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- Prohibition of release restrictions - The proposed Rule relating to the prohibition of release restrictions has been extended to apply to releases entered into involving Institutional Clients. [3711(1)]

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3800, "Books and Records", the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- References to specific derivatives in ledger accounts and client account statements- Proposed Rule 3800 replaces the terms "commodity futures contracts" and "commodity futures contract options" with the term "derivatives", unless specific references to those terms are necessary to clarify reporting requirements such as in trade confirmations. This revision allows the ledger and client statement requirements to be extended to other derivatives and will create consistency in the books, records and reporting being maintained. [throughout 3800]
- Replacement of the term "securities"- Proposed Rule 3800 replaces the term "securities" with the term "investment products". The current language assumes that all account positions received into and /or delivered out of the accounts are securities. Since Dealer Members transact in investment products, including securities, derivatives and certain deposit instruments, the proposed Rule has been amended to refer to investment products instead of securities. This revision allows the books, records and reporting requirements to be extended to all investment products. [throughout 3800]

- Replacement of the term "exchange" - Proposed Rule 3800 replaces the term "exchange" with the term "marketplace". This revision allows the requirements in Rule 3800 to be extended to all marketplaces, not only exchanges. [throughout 3800]
- Record retention requirements - The proposed Rule sets out the general requirements for retaining records under Corporation Rules and other relevant legislation. The provision is drafted to comply with NI 31-103 which requires records to be kept for a period of seven years from the date the record is created. Guidance Note 3800-2 Content and retention of books and records outlines the records that must be kept under NI 31-103. In addition, there are other relevant pieces of legislation relating to limitation periods, including securities legislation, provincial securities and commodities acts, federal and provincial corporations acts, etc., which may contain retention periods which differ from the seven year general limitation period. If Corporation Rules or securities legislation relating to the specific type of record requires a retention period other than the seven year limitation, then it is acceptable to conform to those specific requirements. The proposed Rule ensures consistency with other Dealer Member Rules as well as other applicable securities legislation. [3802]
- Removal of the Board of Directors approval of the statistical information requested of a Dealer Member with respect to their business - The proposed Rule relating to statistical information provided by Dealer Members has been rewritten to eliminate the approval of the Board of Directors. The Corporation will retain the ability to require Dealer Members to provide statistical information. [3805(4)]
- Opening and closing transactions requirement for blotter, record of order received and trade confirmations - The proposed Rule will specifically require opening or closing transactions (where required by the marketplace) to be shown on blotters, record orders and trade confirmations. Transactions that do not identify whether it is an opening or closing transaction can significantly complicate the risk management process of the clearing house since it becomes difficult to identify and match up positions. Proposed Rule 3800 will clarify this issue and improve market efficiency by explicitly stating that an opening or closing transaction must be shown if it is required by the marketplace in which the trade took place. [3806(1)(xi)]
- Requirements for blotters (records of original entry) - The current requirements for maintaining blotters and other records of original entry isolate prescriptive items for a few individual types of investment products. Proposed Rule 3800 includes minimum blotter requirements that Dealer Members will be required to maintain. This revision was made to ensure consistency in the books and records being maintained for all transactions. Moreover, the reporting items for blotters relating to trades in specific debt securities and derivatives are moved into Guidance Note 3800-2. [3806]
- Record of orders received - The current IROC Dealer Member rules specify that each record of order or other instruction must show the time of execution or cancellation. However, the current rules do not explicitly require that time of modification be reported. The proposed Rule expands upon this requirement by including the time of modification. This revision is intended to provide greater transparency in the Dealer Member's reporting obligations. [3812(2)(vi) and (vii)]
- Marketplace disclosure requirement - Currently, Dealer Member Rule 200 requires written trade confirmations to disclose the exchange upon which a trade took place. This requirement does not capture trades executed outside of recognized exchange facilities such as quotation and trade reporting systems and alternative trading systems, as well as circumstances in which trades are executed on more than one marketplace. The proposed Rule will account for all marketplaces and for trades that are executed on more than one of these marketplaces. [3831(1)(iii)]
- Requirements for client account statements - Proposed Rule 3800 clarifies IROC's expectation that a Dealer Member must provide certain minimum information on an account statement to clients. The current requirements do not explicitly list the information that must be listed on an account statement for all transactions involving investment product positions held by or controlled by the Dealer Member for the client. The proposed Rule has been written taking into consideration the requirements set out in Section 14.14, "Client statements", of National Instrument 31-103. [3841]
- Consolidated statements - The current Dealer Member Rules specify the minimum disclosure to clients, such as requiring a Dealer Member to send out monthly or quarterly client statements; however the rules are not clear with respect to the reporting requirements when reporting on a consolidated basis. The proposed Rule adds a new section which incorporates the information set out in a guidance notice issued on August 2, 2001 (IDA MR-0087) regarding consolidated statements. Pursuant to the proposed Rule, a Dealer Member may provide consolidated statements to clients in addition to, but not in place of, the statements required under Corporation Rules. The proposed Rule requires that the consolidated statement clearly state: i) the positions covered by CIPF; ii) the legal entity to contact regarding statement errors; and iii) that the legal entity statement is the statement that is subject to annual auditor confirmation. [3842]

In addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing requirements to create proposed Rule 3900 Supervision, the following substantive amendments are proposed:

- Organization of Supervision Rules - The Rules relating to supervision of a Dealer Member's business have been reorganized to clearly distinguish between supervision requirements that apply to all types of businesses and those that only apply to specific types of business, such as retail, institutional, managed accounts, or order-execution only. [throughout 3900]
- Review Criteria and Trade Thresholds - Existing Dealer Member Rule 2500 contains many provisions relating to the criteria for account review and trade thresholds that are intended as guidance only. These provisions have been removed from the proposed Rule, with the sections that continue to be relevant moved into guidance notes attached to proposed Rule 3900.
- Alternate Designated Supervisors - In the proposed Rule, the requirement for Dealer Members to appoint alternate designated Supervisors has been included in Part B General Requirements for Account Supervision, ensuring that this requirement is applied uniformly across all business activities. In addition, the requirement for alternate designated Supervisors to be specifically appointed for options accounts and for futures accounts has been included in this part of the proposed Rule. This clarifies the rule that alternate designated Supervisors are required for all options and futures business, both institutional and retail. The current Rules only state this requirement explicitly for retail accounts. [3900, Part B]

Rule-making process

IIROC Staff involved representatives of Dealer Members in the rule development process, through preliminary consultations.

Proposed Rules 3400, 3500, 3600, 3700, 3800 and 3900 were made available to all Dealer Members for their input through a Dealer Members' only website. A designated Compliance and Legal Section ("CLS") working group also reviewed and provided comments on proposed Rules 3400, 3500, 3600 and 3900. Copies of these proposed Rules were then made available to all CLS Members for their input and comments. A copy of the proposed Rule 3800 was made available to the Financial Administrators Section ("FAS"). Proposed Rule 3800 was also submitted to the FAS Executive committee and the FAS Operations Subcommittee for review and comments. A number of changes to the draft proposal were made in response to the comments IIROC received through these consultations.

The proposed Rules were approved for publication by the IIROC Board of Directors on June 24, 2010.

The text of proposed plain language Rules 3400 to 3900 is set out in Attachment A. The text of the existing Dealer Member Rules to be repealed is set out in Attachment B. A table of concordance is included as Attachment C. The text of the relevant Guidance Notes is set out in Attachment D. The attached Guidance Notes are based on previously issued guidance and/or notices.

Issues and alternatives considered

An alternative to the inclusion of the amendments being proposed was to leave the rules substantively as they were prior to the plain language rewrite. IIROC staff considered other pending projects and proposals as well as the extent of the potential, substantive changes identified in order to decide which of the substantive changes would be proposed as part of the plain language rule rewrite project. Those substantive changes which were originally identified as part of the plain language rule rewrite project, but which were ultimately excluded from the plain language rewrite project are being pursued as separate rulemaking projects.

With respect to proposed Rule 3600 (Communications with the Public), IIROC staff had received requests from Dealer Members to consider amending existing Dealer Member Rule 3400 (Research Restrictions and Disclosure Requirements) so that IIROC requirements are consistent with those in place in the United States. This issue has become more of a focal point recently with the publication of proposed amendments to the FINRA requirements on research analysts and research reports outlined in FINRA Regulatory Notice 08-55. IIROC staff intend to consider other potential amendments to the research rules as a separate project. We have consulted with FINRA on their proposed rule changes and have been advised that some aspects of their proposed amendments may be revised before they are finalized. In any case, we expect that any project involving significant changes to the research requirements will require considerable input and discussion. The amendments will be considered as part of a separate project.

Proposed Rule classification

Statements have been made elsewhere as to the nature and effects of the proposed Rules. The purposes of the proposed Rules are to:

- o Ensure compliance with securities laws;
- o Prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices;
- o Promote just and equitable principles of trade and emphasize the duty to act fairly, honestly and in good faith;
- o Foster fair, equitable and ethical business standards and practices; and
- o Promote the protection of investors.

IIROC staff propose that rules pertaining to dealing with clients should be rewritten to reflect actual IIROC expectations, to enhance the clarity of the rule and to ensure consistency with applicable securities legislation. These amendments are in addition to the plain language rewrite of the existing rule provisions. The Board has determined that the proposed amendments are not contrary to the public interest.

Due to the extent and substantive nature of these proposed amendments, they have been classified as Public Comment Rule proposals.

Effects of proposed Rule on market structure, Dealer Members, non-members, competition and costs of compliance

With proposed plain language Rules 3400 to 3900, Dealer Members will benefit from enhanced clarity and certainty in the proposed Rules.

The proposed Rules will not have any significant effects on Dealer Members or non-Dealer Members, market structure or competition. Furthermore, it is not expected that there will be any significant, increased costs of compliance as a result of the proposed Rules.

The proposed Rules do not impose any burden or constraint on competition or innovation that is not necessary or appropriate in the furtherance of IIROC's regulatory objectives. The proposed Rules do not impose costs or restrictions on the activities of market participants that are disproportionate to the goals of the regulatory objectives sought to be realized.

Technological implications and implementation plan

There should not be significant technological implications for Dealer Members as a result of the proposed amendments. Proposed plain language Rules 3400 to 3900 will be implemented at the same time as the rest of the plain language rules.

RULE 29

BUSINESS CONDUCT

- 29.1
- During the period of distribution to the public (as that term is defined in the relevant securities legislation) of any securities a Dealer Member shall not offer for sale or accept any offer to buy all or any part of the securities acquired by such Dealer Member through its participation in such distribution as an underwriter or as a member of a banking or selling group at a price or prices in excess of the stated initial public offering price of such securities.
- 29.2. During the period of distribution to the public (as that term is defined in the relevant securities legislation) of any securities a Dealer Member shall not offer for sale or accept any offer to buy all or any part of the securities acquired by such Dealer Member through its participation in such distribution as an underwriter or as a member of a banking or selling group at a price or prices in excess of the stated initial public offering price of such securities.
- 29.3. During such period of distribution to the public a Dealer Member shall make a bona fide offering of the total amount of such participation to public investors. The term "public investors" does not include any officer or employee of a bank, insurance company, trust company, investment fund, pension fund or similar institutional body or the immediate families of any such officer or employee of any such institution regularly engaged in the purchase or sale of securities for such institution, unless such sales are demonstratively for bona fide personal investment in accordance with the person's normal investment practice. For the purposes of this Rule 29.3 the term "normal investment practice" shall mean the history of investment in an account with the Dealer Member and if such history discloses a practice of purchasing mainly "hot issues" such record would not constitute a "normal investment practice".

- 29.3A. A Dealer Member shall give priority to orders for the accounts of customers of the Dealer Member over all other orders for the same security at the same price. The phrase "orders for the accounts of customers of the Dealer Member" shall not include an order for an account in which the Dealer Member or an employee of the Dealer Member has an interest, direct or indirect, other than an interest in a commission charged.

Except to the extent referred to in the third paragraph of this Rule 29.5, a director is not released from the necessity of keeping information of this character to himself or herself until there has been full public disclosure of such information, particularly when the information might affect the market price of the corporation's securities. Any director of such corporation who is also a Director, Executive or employee of a Dealer Member should recognize that his or her first responsibility in this area is to the public corporation on whose board he or she serves and that he or she must, except to the extent referred to in the third paragraph of this Rule 29.5, meticulously avoid any disclosure of inside information to the Directors, Executives, employees, customers, or research or trading departments of the Dealer Member.

Where a representative of a Dealer Member is not a director of a corporation but is acting in an underwriting or advisory capacity to such corporation and is discussing confidential matters, his or her responsibilities regarding disclosure are the same as those that would apply if such representative were a director of such corporation.

With reference to the two preceding paragraphs of this Rule 29.5, a Director or a representative, as the case may be, of a Dealer Member may consult with other personnel of the Dealer Member if a matter requires such consultation but in this event adequate measures should be taken to guard the confidential nature of the information to prevent its misuse within or outside the organization of the Dealer Member and the responsibilities of any such other personnel regarding disclosure are the same as those that would apply if such personnel were directors of the relevant corporation.

All such policies and procedures shall be approved by the Corporation.
- 29.7 (3) The policies and procedures referred to in subsection (2) may provide that such review and supervision will be done by pre-use approval, post use review or post use sampling, as appropriate to the type of material. However, the

Guide to interpretation of Rule 200.1

Rule 200.1 specifies the various items of information which must be reflected on the firm's books as required by the applicable provincial securities legislation. The Rule does not require the various books and records to be kept in any prescribed form. It is expected, however, that the means of recording the information will be complemented by appropriate internal controls to guard against the risk of falsification and will make available clear and accurate information to the Corporation within a reasonable length of time.

(a) "Blotters"

This term was historically used to describe a dealer's or broker's books of original entry of daily transactions as principals or on behalf of customers. Larger firms now maintain separate data files and daily reports to record each type of transaction such as purchases versus sales, unlisted securities, bonds, cash receipts, cash disbursements and stock record journals.

Blotters generally should record on purchases and sales the party on the other side, security description, quantity, price, accrued interest, commission, settlement amount, trade date, settlement date and the account for which the transaction was done.

(b) "General Ledger"

The general ledger is the primary financial record of the company in which all assets, liabilities, capital, income and expense accounts are summarized. The general ledger is the basis for preparing financial statements and regulatory reports as required by the self-regulatory organizations. Entries made to the general ledger are derived from the various blotters and sub ledgers referred to in section (a) of Rule 200.1.

(c) "Cash, Margin and Firm Accounts"

Accounts must show all trades, settlement dates, cash disbursements and receipts and deliveries or receipts of securities or commodities. This section requires that customer account sub ledgers be kept for each customer cash and margin account and firm inventory account. Monthly statements must be produced for each active account showing a date column, quantity of securities bought or sold, security description and cash debits or credits.

In addition, statements must show the dollar balance carried forward from the previous statement; all entries shown in the account since the previous statement date; and the final dollar balance and the security position as of the statement date. The statements must also indicate the items included in the final security position which are held in safekeeping.

For purposes of Rule 200.1 only, the definition of "customer" includes the investing public, financial institutions, other investment dealers and stock brokers, affiliates and partners, shareholders, directors, officers and employees of a Dealer Member firm and its affiliates.

Dealer Members not depositing customers' free credit balances in a trust bank account should refer to Rule 1200.1 for details of the special notation that must be affixed to all statements sent to customers.

(d) "Secondary or Subsidiary Records"

These records are made up from the blotters or other records of original entry. A brief description of such subsidiary records follows:

(i) "Securities in Transfer"

The purpose of this item of Rule 200.1 is to require the keeping of a record showing all securities "sent to and held by transfer agents". This record usually shows the number of shares or the par value, name of security, name in which it was registered, new name, date sent out to transfer, old certificate number, date received back from transfer, new certificate numbers and date on new certificate.

(ii) "Dividends and Interest Received"

For the purpose of this item of Rule 200.1 it is necessary that a record be maintained by the firm with respect to interest or dividends paid on bonds or stocks, held by the Dealer Member for the customers but registered in some name other than that of the customer. The general practice, which would represent compliance with the rule, is to record on a ledger the security, the record date, the ex-dividend date, the payable date and the entitlement rate. The information is then recorded on the dividend sub ledger. All customers who are "long" are credited with their share of the funds received by the firm on account of the dividend or interest. All customers who are "short" on the dividend record date or the interest payable date are charged with the amount payable on their short position. All bearer securities in the firm's possession or in hypothecation on the record or interest date must be examined to determine against whom the firm must claim for payment.

(iii) "Securities Borrowed and Securities Loaned"

In borrowing securities or in lending securities to other dealers or brokers, it is necessary to enter such transactions in borrowed or loaned accounts set up for each customer. The securities borrowed or loaned account records the date borrowed or date loaned, name of firm from whom borrowed or to whom loaned, quantity, name of security, certificate numbers and the date returned. In some cases, these records also provide an additional column showing the interest rate or premium on stock borrowed or loaned and any collateral provided or received.

(iv) "Monies Borrowed and Monies Loaned, Etc."

A record must be kept of all borrowings. This record should show the name of the customer, the date, the interest rate, the amount of the loan, terms of the loan, and the date when the loan is made and when repaid. The number of shares, or principal amount in the case of bonds, name of the security, and certificate numbers of securities pledged as collateral must be recorded.

(v) "Securities Failed to Receive or Deliver"

These are subsidiary records and are based on information contained on the blotters or other records of original entry. Upon learning that a dealer or broker will fail to deliver on the settlement day, either under the agreement between the buyer and the seller or under clearing house rules, this item requires that records must be kept which show the "fail date" (i.e. the date on which delivery was due but not made), name of security, purchase price, broker or dealer from whom delivery is due, and date received. Conversely, when the firm fails to deliver, it must record the date on which delivery was due, number of shares or principal amount of bonds, name of security, to whom sold, sales price and date on which delivery is made. The total dollar amount of open items on the "fail to receive" and "fail to deliver" records should agree with the "fail to receive" and "fail to deliver" accounts in the firm's general ledger kept pursuant to section (b) of Rule 200.1.

(e) & (f) "Securities and Commodity Record or Ledger"

These sections require that the securities and commodity record be posted currently to show all positions no later than the settlement date. The record may, of course, be posted on the "trade" or execution date or any other date prior to the settlement date. Dealer Members may keep separate "securities and commodity records" or "position records" as they are often called, for equities, debt, options and for commodities. The record should show the name of the security, the customers' and other accounts which are "long" and "short" that security, the daily changes in their position, the location of each security, and the total of the long or short position for the account of customers and the firm and partners. This record should be reviewed frequently to ensure it is "in balance" (i.e. for each security or commodity the total long positions should equal the total short positions).

(g) "Memoranda of Orders"

In this section the term "instruction" shall be deemed to include instructions between partners or directors and employees of a Dealer Member. The term "time of entry" is specified to mean the time when the Dealer Member transmits the order or instruction for execution, or if it is not so transmitted, the time when it is received.

(h) "Confirmations"

The provincial securities commissions require that every person or company registered for trading in securities who has acted as principal or agent in connection with any trade in a security shall promptly send or deliver to the customer a written confirmation of the transaction, setting forth the details required in this section of Rule 200.1. A person or company or a salesperson may be identified in a written confirmation by means of a code or symbols if the written confirmation also contains a statement that the name of the person, company or salesperson will be furnished to the customer on request.

(i) "Records of Cash and Margin Accounts"

A margin agreement between a Dealer Member and a customer shall define at least the following:

- (i) The obligation of the customer in respect of the payment of his or her indebtedness to the Dealer Member and the maintenance of adequate margin and security;
- (ii) The obligation of the customer in respect of the payment of interest on debit balances in his or her account;
- (iii) The rights of the Dealer Member in respect of raising money on and pledging securities and other assets held in the customer's account;
- (iv) The extent of the right of the Dealer Member to make use of free credit balances in the customer's account;
- (v) The rights of the Dealer Member in respect of the realization of securities and other assets held in the customer's account and in respect of purchases to cover short sales, and whether any prior notice is required, and if notice be required, the nature and extent of it and the obligations of the customer in respect of any deficiency;
- (vi) The extent of the right of the Dealer Member to utilize a security in the customer's account for the purpose of making a delivery on account of a short sale;
- (vii) The extent of the right of the Dealer Member to use a security in the customer's account for delivery on a sale by the Dealer Member for his or her or its own account or for any account in which the Dealer Member, any partner therein or any director thereof, is directly or indirectly interested;
- (viii) The extent of the right of the Dealer Member to otherwise deal with securities and other assets in the customer's account and to hold the same as collateral security for the customer's indebtedness; and
- (ix) That all transactions entered into on behalf of the customer shall be subject to the Rules of the Investment Industry Regulatory Organization of Canada and/or any securities exchange if executed thereon.

(j) "Puts, Calls, and Other Options"

Such a record may be kept in any suitable form which shows the date, details regarding the option, name of security, number of shares, and the expiration date; letters pertaining to such options, including those received from and addressed to customers, should be kept together with the record.

(k) & (m) "Monthly Trial Balances and Capital Computations"

Such trial balances and computations will serve as a check upon the current status and accuracy of the ledger accounts which Dealer Members are required to maintain and keep current and will also help to keep Dealer Members currently informed of their capital positions as required under Rule 17.1.

A Dealer Member must keep currently informed as to the excess capital position and make a computation as often as necessary to ensure that there is adequate capital at all times; but Dealer Members must preserve only the monthly computation mentioned above. On the other hand, Dealer Members whose capital position is substantially in excess of that required, may omit detailed schedules and analyses in support of the computation if they apply a more stringent application of the Rule governing the computation.

For example, when calculating risk adjusted capital, inventories can be grouped into broader margin categories and maximum margin rates applied; offsetting provisions such as those contained in Rule 100.4 can be ignored; and assets partly allowable or of questionable value can be excluded in their entirety.

When a Dealer Member cannot prove that adequate capital exists, the firm must notify the Corporation immediately.

(n) "Account Transfers"

Documentation required pursuant to Rule 2300 in respect of customer account transfers is expected to be by means of electronic communication. In order to protect Dealer Members and customers on account transfers and to ensure that such transfers are effected expeditiously, Dealer Members must ensure that copies of all communications sent or received in respect of account transfers are maintained in an accurate, secure and readily accessible format. .

The supervisory standards in this Rule relating to know-your-client and suitability are intended to provide Supervisors with guidelines on how to monitor the handling of these responsibilities by the Registered Representative.

I. Establishing and Maintaining Procedures, Delegation and Education

Introduction

Effective self-regulation begins with the Dealer Member establishing and maintaining a supervisory environment which fosters the business objectives of the Dealer Member and enables the Dealer Member to meet regulatory requirements and its obligations to its customers. To that end a Dealer Member must establish and maintain procedures which are supervised by qualified individuals. A major aspect of self-regulation is the ongoing education of staff in all areas of business conduct.

A. Establishing Procedures

1. A Dealer Member must:
 - (a) appoint Supervisors and supervisory personnel who have the necessary knowledge of industry regulations and Dealer Member policy to properly perform their duties;
 - (b) maintain written policies and procedures to document supervision requirements; and
 - (c) supply written instructions to all Supervisors and alternates to advise them on what is expected of them.
2. A Dealer Member must have a procedure establishing the approval process for new policies and procedures. Those having a significant impact on the Dealer Member's compliance system should be approved by senior management.

B. Maintaining Procedures

1. A Dealer Member must have a reasonable process to review the efficacy of its business conduct procedures and practices and rectify any deficiencies identified.

C. Risk-based procedures

1. A Dealer Member may select accounts for review on the basis of risk-based procedures, taking into account factors such as the size of account, nature of the trading, products traded, volume of activity, commissions generated or Approved Persons advising the customer.
2. A Dealer Member must document the basis used for selecting accounts for review in its policies and procedures.
3. The procedures for selecting accounts for review must be applied consistently across retail accounts.
4. At a minimum, a Dealer Member must conduct enhanced supervision of trading by Approved Persons who have had a history of questionable conduct. Evidence of such conduct can include trading activity that frequently raises questions in account reviews, frequent or serious client complaints, regulatory investigations, frequent account credit problems or failure to take appropriate remedial action on account problems identified.

D. Delegation

1. Supervisors may delegate tasks but not responsibility.
2. A Dealer Member must advise Supervisors of those specific functions that cannot be delegated.
3. The Supervisor delegating the task must ensure that these tasks are being performed adequately and that exceptions are brought to his or her attention.
4. Those to whom tasks are delegated must have the qualifications to perform them and should be advised in writing what is expected.

E. Education

1. A Dealer Member must provide all sales and supervisory personnel with the current sales practices and policies relevant to their functions. The provision can be done through access to electronic systems on which the policies and procedures are maintained, in which case personnel must be trained on use of the systems. A Dealer Member should obtain and record acknowledgements from all sales and supervisory personnel that they have read and understood the policies and procedures relevant to their responsibilities.

2. A Dealer Member must provide introductory and continuing education to all Approved Persons on the Dealer Member's policies and procedures and any relevant changes to them.
3. A Dealer Member must communicate information contained in compliance-related bulletins from the Corporation and other SROs and Regulatory Organizations to all sales and other Approved Persons to whom it is relevant. A Dealer Member must maintain procedures relating to the method and timing of distribution of compliance-related bulletins.

F. Records

1. A Dealer Member must maintain records of supervisory review for seven years.
2. A Dealer Member must maintain the records in a manner that permits them to be provided to the Corporation promptly for the first two years after its creation and within a reasonable time thereafter.
3. The evidence must record who conducted the review and when, inquiries made, replies received and actions taken.

II. Opening New Accounts

Introduction

To comply with the "Know-Your-Client" rule each Dealer Member must establish procedures to maintain accurate and complete information on each client. The first step towards compliance with this rule is completing proper documentation when opening new accounts. Accurate completion of the documentation when opening a new account allows both the Registered Representative and the supervisory staff to conduct the necessary review to ensure that recommendations made for any account are appropriate for the client and in keeping with his investment objectives. Maintaining accurate and current documentation will allow the Registered Representative and the supervisory staff to ensure that all recommendations made for any account are appropriate for the client and in keeping with the client's investment objectives.

"Know-Your-Client" procedures must also be directed at meeting a Dealer Member's gatekeeper obligations by identifying clients that present a high risk of conducting improper activities in the securities markets. For example, if a Dealer Member is concerned about a client's reputation, the Dealer Member must make all reasonable inquiries to resolve the concern. This includes making a reasonable effort to determine, for example, the nature of the client's business. Dealer Members should refuse to accept instructions from clients who, in the Dealer Member's judgment, are engaged in illegal, unfair or abusive trading activities. "Know-Your-Client" procedures must also meet the requirements of anti-money laundering and terrorist financial legislation and regulations.

III. Account Supervision Generally

Introduction

Rule 38.1 requires a Dealer Member to implement systems of supervision and control to ensure that is reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the Rules and Rulings of the Corporation and all other laws, regulations and policies applicable to the Dealer Member's securities and commodity futures business. This section provides guidance on the means used by Dealer Members to meet that requirement with respect to retail customer accounts.

A. Supervisory Structure

1. In maintaining a supervisory structure and appointing Supervisors, a Dealer Member must take into consideration all factors necessary to ensure the adequacy of the supervision, including the products traded, type of trading, location of business and other functions of Supervisors.
2. Where the Dealer Member conducts retail business in business locations outside its Head Office, it should consider the following:

- A resident Supervisor is in the best position to know the Registered Representatives in the office, know or meet many of the clients, understand local conditions and needs, facilitate business through the timely approval of new accounts and respond immediately to questions or problems. However, a Dealer Member may determine to what extent a resident Supervisor is necessary, considering factors such as:
 - The number of Registered Representatives in the location
 - The experience of Registered Representatives in the location
 - The nature of the business conducted in the location
 - The availability of a Supervisor or Supervisors in nearby locations
 - Other systems and controls mitigating the risk of remote supervision
 - Where a business location does not have a Supervisor working in the office, it must have an outside Supervisor assigned to it. A Dealer Member's policies and procedures and the instructions to the outside Supervisor must include provision for periodic visits to the location by the Supervisor as necessary to ensure that business is being conducted properly at the location.
3. While it is not always possible in a very small firm, a Dealer Member should ensure independent supervision of all retail accounts. A Supervisor's advice and trades for his or her own clients should be supervised by another Supervisor.
 4. A Dealer Member must ensure that a Supervisor who advises and trades for his or her own clients devotes sufficient time and attention to his or her supervisory role.
 5. A Dealer Member must ensure that Supervisors are qualified to supervise trading activity in all products traded by those under his or her supervision and any other services that they provide to Retail Customers. Where the Supervisor is not so qualified, the Dealer Member may divide the supervision between two or more Supervisors, but must ensure that there are appropriate mechanisms for them to communicate with one another, that the system ensures that the Dealer Member maintains an overall view of the client's situation and activity and that the assignment of responsibilities is clear and complete. One acceptable mechanism for doing so is the appointment of a primary Supervisor to whom the other Supervisor(s) provide advice with regard to the activity in the products or services the primary Supervisor is not qualified to supervise.
 6. A Dealer Member's supervisory system must provide Supervisors with the information necessary to properly conduct their supervision. For account reviews this includes readily accessible client information and full information about account activity including relevant non-trade activity such as receipts, deliveries, deposits, withdrawals and journal entries.
 7. A Dealer Member's supervisory system must provide for back-up during the absence of responsible Supervisors. For any prolonged absence of a Supervisor, the back-up Supervisor should be advised as necessary of any ongoing issues or concerns as necessary to provide proper supervision.
 8. A Dealer Member must have systems of supervision and review to ensure that Supervisors are properly fulfilling their supervisory functions. This requirement can be met by a two-tiered system of first and second level reviews as described in this policy.
 9. A Supervisor must have sufficient authority to take effective and timely remedial action where account activity or any other matter under his or her supervision falls or appears to fall outside the bounds of proper conduct, just and equitable principles of trade or good business practice. Escalation for a decision by a more senior Supervisor or Executive will be considered an acceptable form of action.

B. Supervision of Account Activity

A Dealer Member must have systems and procedures to supervise trading activity in retail accounts. The supervision must provide reasonable assurance that the Dealer Member is meeting its regulatory obligations, including those to clients such as suitability and gatekeeper obligations such as preventing market abuses. The following principles should be taken into consideration:

1. Reviews may be conducted on a pre-trade or post-trade basis. A properly crafted pre-trade review process may obviate or lessen the need for post-trade reviews.
2. Review procedures must cover all accounts. Where a Dealer Member offers both commission and fee-based accounts, it cannot select accounts for review solely on the basis of commission levels; it must also have a procedure for selecting fee-based accounts for review.
3. Reviews procedures must be able to identify patterns of activity that are not apparent by reviewing trades singly. For example, a review of trading over a longer period may raise questions about the overall level of activity even though each trade, looked at singly, appears to be suitable for the client.
4. Reviews must encompass non-trade issues such as late payment, margin problems, trade cancellations or transfers and flows of funds or securities that might be suspicious of money laundering.
5. The selection of activity for post-trade review may be done using a risk-based approach reasonably designed to detect improper activity. A risk-based approach can be used to determine the period of activity to be reviewed. For example, in some cases it may be appropriate to conduct longer-term reviews of monthly activity; in others they may consider shorter or longer periods.
6. Reviews must take into consideration, and reviewers must have access to, information about customers that may reasonably be assessed as presenting a higher risk of improper market activity such as those known by the Dealer Member to have access to material non-public information about issuers, holders of control blocks of public issuers and market professionals.
7. All account activity of employees and agents should be subject to review.
8. Reviews must be done on a timely basis, as established in the Dealer Member's policies and procedures. The timing should be reasonably designed to identify as early as possible matters requiring supervisory attention.
9. It is acceptable to use computer analysis to assist in selecting activity to be reviewed.

IV. Two-Tier Reviews

In a Dealer Member with multiple business locations conducting Retail Customer account activity, a two-tier system of post-trade activity reviews as described in this section is an acceptable structure.

The first level review will normally be conducted by a Supervisor at each business location having a resident Supervisor. Such reviews may also be carried out on a regional basis or at a Dealer Member's head office provided that the systems and resources to conduct the review are available at the regional or head office and that the Dealer Member has adequate systems and procedures for dealing with any issues identified.

The second-tier review will normally be conducted at the Dealer Member's Head Office, but may also be done regionally. The second level of supervision is generally not at the same depth as first level supervision. It should and be reasonably designed to identify serious account problems, including all those listed regarding first level reviews, that may have been missed by the first level supervision and ensure that first level supervision is being adequately conducted.

Where second level reviews are conducted by personnel or a department responsible only for monitoring activity, the Dealer Member should have procedures for referring issues that cannot be resolved with first level Supervisors to a higher level Supervisor who has the authority to resolve them.

A. First-Tier Daily Reviews

A first-tier review examines the previous day's trading using means described in the Dealer Member's procedures to attempt to detect the following:

- unsuitable trading;
- undue concentration of securities in a single account or across accounts;
- excessive trade activity;

- trading in restricted securities;
- conflict of interest between Registered Representative and client trading activity;
- excessive trade transfers, trade cancellations etc. indicating possible unauthorized trading;
- inappropriate / high risk trading strategies;
- quality downgrading of client holdings;
- excessive / improper crosses of securities between clients;
- improper employee trading;
- front running;
- account number changes;
- late payment;
- outstanding margin calls;
- violation of any internal trading restrictions ;
- undisclosed short sales;
- manipulative or deceptive trading;
- insider trading.

B. First-Tier Monthly Reviews

1. A first-tier monthly review should encompass the areas of concern as described in subsection IV.A for daily activity reviews.
2. It may not be possible to review each statement produced. A first-tier monthly review starts with the selection, on a basis reasonably designed to detect improper account activity, of Retail Customer accounts to be reviewed. A Dealer Member can meet this obligation by reviewing the activity of all customers charged gross commissions of $1,500 or more for the month.
3. A first-tier monthly review should include all non-client accounts showing any activity other than receipt of dividends or interest or payment of interest.
4. This review should be completed within 21 days of the period covered unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

C. Second-Tier Daily Reviews

1. Daily reviews should cover the following:
 - trades meeting criteria established in the Dealer Member's policies and procedures. For this purpose, the following meet the requirement:
 - stock trades with a value over $5,000 and a price under $5.00 per share;
 - stock trades with value over $20,000 and a price at or over $5.00 per share;
 - bond trades over $100,000 value per trade;
 - non-client trading;
 - client accounts of producing Supervisor;

- all client accounts not reviewed by a Supervisor;
 - trade cancellations;
 - trading in restricted accounts;
 - trading in suspense accounts;
 - account number changes;
 - late payment;
 - outstanding margin calls.
2. Daily reviews should be completed no later than the business day following the activity unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

D. Second-Tier Monthly Reviews

1. A Dealer Member must select accounts for second-tier review based on criteria established in its policies and procedures. This requirement can be met using the following criteria:
- accounts of customers charged more than $3,000 in commission during the month;
 - accounts of, all customers and non-clients charged more than $1,500 in commission during the month that were not subject to a first level review by the normal first level Supervisor, including the customer accounts of producing first-tier Supervisors.
2. Monthly reviews should be completed within 21 business days of the period covered unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

E. Other Activity

In addition to transactional activity, a Dealer Member must have systems and procedures designed to identify, deal with and keep first level Supervisors informed about other client related matters such as:

- client complaints;
- cash account violations;
- transfers of funds and securities between unrelated accounts or between non-client and client accounts or deposits from non-client to client accounts;
- trading while under margined.

V. Option Account Supervision

Introduction

A Dealer Member dealing in options or Exchange traded commodity or index warrants must appoint a Supervisor (the "Designated Options Supervisor") qualified to supervise options trading to have overall responsibility for the opening of new option accounts and the supervision of account activity. The Designated Options Supervisor must ensure that the Dealer Member implements policies and procedures reasonably designed to ensure that all recommendations made for any account are and continue to be appropriate for the customer and in keeping with his or her investment objectives. In addition, a Dealer Member should, where the level of options trading activity warrants it, have a qualified Supervisor to assist in supervisory activities and to carry out the functions of the Designated Options Supervisor in his or her absence. All supervisory procedures regarding options must be conducted by options qualified Supervisors.

A. Account Opening and Approval

3. The Designated Options Supervisor or another options qualified Supervisor must approve all accounts to trade in options and their approval and the date of approval must be recorded.

4. The approving Supervisor must determine whether the risk characteristics of the strategies the customer intends to use are appropriate for the customer and in keeping with his or her investment objectives and risk tolerance. If they are not, the approving Supervisor should restrict the account from using inappropriate strategies and note with the option account approval any trading restrictions imposed. The Supervisor must ensure that the Registered Representative handling the account is aware of any restrictions.

B. Activity Reviews

1. A Dealer Member's supervisory procedures must include reviews of option trading activity for suitability, exceeding position or exercise limits, concentration, commission activity, and exposure of uncovered positions.
2. A two-tier post-trade review system using the following criteria is not mandatory but will be deemed to meet the review requirement:
 - Daily first-tier review of all option trading activity;
 - Daily second-tier review of opening option trading activity in excess of ten contracts in any one account.

C. Monthly Reviews

Accounts must be selected for monthly first- and second-tier reviews of account using criteria reasonably designed to detect improper activity. For accounts that trade in equities and fixed income products as well as options, it may be appropriate to use the criteria described in Section IV.D. For accounts in which the trading is more concentrated in options, the criteria should take into account the risks related to the type of strategies being used.

D. Other Options Policies and Procedures

A Dealer Member's policies and procedures must include, where applicable:

1. The Designated Options Supervisor's involvement in the approval and daily and monthly reviews of any discretionary managed accounts trading in options. The Designated Options Supervisor need not conduct such reviews but should be aware of the use of options in discretionary or managed accounts and exercise heightened care to ensure that it is conducted and supervised properly.
2. Procedures to ensure clients are notified of impending expiry dates.
3. Procedures to ensure the dissemination of information on new developments in the trading and regulation of options in a prudent and appropriate manner; and the dissemination to all clients of any changes in a firm's business policy.
4. Procedures for notifying clients of significant changes in options contracts in which they have open positions resulting from changes to the underlying security.
5. Procedures to ensure that only qualified Registered Representatives or Investment Representatives engage in trading in or advising on options and that they do so only after the Corporation has been notified as required in Rule 18.
6. Procedures to review and approve advertising and sales literature relating to options. The Designated Options Supervisor need not conduct such reviews but should be aware of the use of advertising or sales literature and exercise heightened care to ensure that it is prepared and supervised properly.
7. Procedures requiring the review and approval of the use of and solicitation of clients to use option programmes.

VI. Future and Futures Options Account Supervision

Designated Futures Supervisor must ensure that the Dealer Member implements policies and procedures reasonably designed to ensure that all recommendations made for any account are and continue to be appropriate for the client and in keeping with his or her investment objectives. In addition, a Dealer Member should, where the level of futures and futures options trading activity warrants it, have a qualified Supervisor to assist in supervisory activities and to carry out the functions of the Designated Futures Supervisor in his or her absence. If they are not, the approving Supervisor should restrict the account from using inappropriate contracts or strategies and record with the futures account approval any trading restrictions imposed. The approving Supervisor must ensure that the Registered Representative handling the account is aware of any restrictions.
5. A Dealer Member's futures account application or futures account agreement must include, other than for a hedging account, a risk limit for futures trading indicating the maximum amount of cumulative loss the client can afford to sustain. The maximum loss can be stated on a lifetime basis or on an annual basis. If the loss limit is stated on an annual basis, the Dealer Member must have a procedure to update it annually and the Designated Futures Supervisor or a Supervisor qualified to supervise futures must review and approve the updated loss limit and ensure that it takes into account any previously accumulated losses.

B. Supervision

A Dealer Member's supervisory procedures must be reasonably designed to detect improper activity such as the following:

- excessive day trading resulting in trading large numbers of contracts;
- trading while under margin;
- trading without approval of the account;
- trading beyond margin or credit limits;
- cumulative losses exceeding risk limits;
- unsuitable trading;
- inappropriate trading strategies;
- position and exercise limits;
- front running;
- conflicts of interest;
- excessive commission activity;
- speculative trading in hedge accounts;
- exposure to delivery through holding contracts into delivery month;
- excessive risk or loss to account guarantors.

C. Other Futures Policies and Procedures

A Dealer Member's policies and procedures must include where applicable:

1. The Designated Futures Supervisor's involvement in the approval and daily and monthly reviews of discretionary or managed futures or futures options accounts. The Designated Futures Supervisor should approve any use of discretionary authority in a futures account.

VII. Discretionary Account Supervision

Introduction

Simple discretionary accounts are accounts where the discretionary authority has not been solicited and which are designed to accommodate customers who are frequently or temporarily unavailable to authorize trades.

A Dealer Member must consent to accepting discretionary accounts and have the proper documentation and supervisory procedures in place to handle such accounts.

B. Entry of Orders

1. A Supervisor must approve any discretionary order for a discretionary account handled by a Registered Representative prior to the order being entered unless:
 - the Registered Representative is qualified to provide discretionary management services and the Dealer Member has notified the Corporation that he or she provides those services, or
 - the Registered Representative is also an approved Executive.

C. Account Supervision

1. The Supervisor designated under Rule 1300.4(a) must review discretionary orders entered by an Executive no later than next day unless the Executive is also a Registered Representative qualified to provide discretionary management services and the Dealer Member has notified the Corporation that he or she provides those services.

VIII. Client Complaints

Each Dealer Member must establish policies and procedures to deal effectively with client complaints. Such policies and procedures must comply with Rule 2500B regarding client complaint handling, and also address complaints that may fall outside the scope of Rule 2500B. All complaints made in writing must be provided with a written response from Dealer Members.

RULE 2500B

CLIENT COMPLAINT HANDLING

1. Introduction

This rule establishes minimum requirements for the client complaint handling process including timely complaint resolution, record retention, and internal discipline. Clients who are considered to be institutional clients pursuant to Rule 2700 are not subject to this rule. There are additional requirements set out in Rule 3100 that are also applicable to the processes of handling client complaints.

2. General

A "complaint" subject to this rule must be submitted by a client or a person authorized to act on behalf of a client and includes:

- A recorded expression of dissatisfaction with a Dealer Member or employee or agent alleging misconduct; and
- A verbal expression of dissatisfaction with a Dealer Member or employee or agent alleging misconduct where a preliminary investigation indicates that the allegation may have merit.

Alleged misconduct includes, but is not limited to, allegations of breach of confidentiality, theft, fraud, misappropriation or misuse of funds or securities, forgery, unsuitable investments, misrepresentation, unauthorized trading relating to the client's account(s), other inappropriate financial dealings with clients and engaging in securities related activities outside of the Dealer Member.

Complaints are to be handled by sales supervisors or compliance staff (or the equivalent) and a copy must be filed with the compliance department / function (or the equivalent) of the Dealer Member.

A matter which is the subject of a civil claim or arbitration is not considered a "complaint" for the purposes of this rule.

3. Designated complaints officer

The Dealer Member must appoint an individual to act as the designated complaints officer. The individual must have the requisite experience and authority to oversee the complaint handling process and to act as a liaison with the Corporation.

4. Complaint procedures / standards

Establish written procedures for dealing with complaints

Dealer Members must have written policies and procedures to ensure that complaints are dealt with effectively, fairly and expeditiously. Such policies and procedures must address the following:

- the fair and thorough investigation of the complaint;
- the process by which an assessment is made regarding the merit of the complaint;
- where the complaint is determined to have merit, the process to be followed in determining what offer should be made to the client; and
- the remedial actions which may be appropriate to be taken within the firm.

Policies and procedures must not allow for complaints to be dismissed without due consideration of the facts of each case. There must be a balanced approach to dealing with complaints that objectively considers the interests of the complainant, the Dealer Member, the registered representative, employee or agent of the Dealer Member, and/or any other relevant parties. Each Dealer Member must ensure that registered representatives and their supervisors are made aware of all complaints filed by their clients.

Each Dealer Member must put procedures in place so that its senior management is made aware of complaints of serious alleged misconduct and of all legal actions.

Dealer Members must have policies and procedures in place to monitor the general nature of complaints. When a Dealer Member reasonably determines that the number and / or severity of complaints is significant, or when a Dealer Member detects frequent and repetitive complaints made with respect to the same matter which may on a cumulative basis indicate a serious problem, then internal procedures and practices must be reviewed, with recommendations to be submitted to the appropriate management level to remedy any such systemic or recurring matters.

Client access to complaint process

At time of account opening, Dealer Members must provide new clients with:

- a written summary of the Dealer Member's complaint handling procedures, which is clear and can be easily understood by clients; and
- a copy of a Corporation approved complaint handling process brochure.

On an ongoing basis, Dealer Members must make available to their clients (either on their website or by other means) a written summary of the Dealer Member's complaint handling procedures, so that clients can stay informed on how to submit a complaint.

The Dealer Member must send a substantive response letter to the complainant. The substantive response letter must be accompanied by a copy of a Corporation approved complaint handling process brochure.

Dealer Members must respond to client complaints as soon as possible and no later than ninety (90) calendar days from the date of receipt by the firm. The ninety (90) days timeline must include all internal processes (with the exception of any internal ombudsman processes offered by an affiliate of the firm) of the Dealer Member that are made available to the client. The client must be advised if he / she is not to receive a final response within the ninety (90) days time frame, including the reasons for the delay and the new estimated time of completion.

The Dealer Member is required to advise the Corporation if it is unable to meet the ninety (90) days timeline and must provide reasons for the delay.

The substantive response must be presented in a manner that is fair, clear and not misleading to the client, and must include the following information:

 - (iv) litigation / civil action; and

Duty to assist in client complaint resolution

Approved Persons must co-operate with Dealer Members where they were employed or acted as agent when moving to a different firm after events or activities resulted in a client complaint.

Dealer Members must co-operate with each other if events relating to a complaint took place at more than one Dealer Member or the Approved Person is an employee or agent of another Dealer Member.

5. Settlement agreements

A release entered into between a Dealer Member and a client may not impose confidentiality or similar restrictions aimed at preventing a client from initiating a complaint to the securities regulatory authorities, self regulatory organizations or other enforcement authorities, or continuing with any pending complaint in progress, or participating in any further proceedings by such authorities.

6. Complaint record retention

The complaint file must be maintained for seven (7) years and retrievable within a reasonable period of time.

Each Dealer Member must keep an up-to-date record in a central, readily accessible place of all recorded submissions and follow-up documentation received by it relating to the conduct, business, and affairs of the Dealer Member, or an employee or agent of the Dealer Member for a period of two (2) years from the date of receipt of the complaint.

The following information must be retained for each complaint:

RULE 2600

INTERNAL CONTROL POLICY STATEMENTS

INTERNAL CONTROL POLICY STATEMENT 1

GENERAL MATTERS

- (v) Industry practice.

Determining whether internal control is adequate is a matter of judgement. However, internal control is not adequate if it does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk of failing to meet control objectives stated in this series of Policy Statements and, as a consequence, one or more of the following conditions has occurred or could reasonably be expected to do so:

- (i) A Dealer Member is inhibited from promptly completing securities transactions or promptly discharging the Dealer Member's responsibilities to clients, to other brokers, or to the industry;
- (ii) Material financial loss is suffered by the Dealer Member, clients or the industry;
- (iii) Material misstatements occur in the Dealer Member's financial statements;
- (iv) Violations of regulations occur to the extent that could reasonably be expected to result in the conditions described in (i) to (iii) above.

Other Policy Statements in this series set out control objectives, required and recommended firm policies and procedures and indications that internal control is not adequate. While recommended firm policies and procedures will be appropriate in many cases to meet the stated objectives, they constitute merely one of a number of methods which Dealer Members may utilize. It is recognized that Dealer Member firms may conduct their business in compliance with legal and regulatory requirements although they may employ procedures which differ from the recommended firm policies and procedures contained in the Policy Statements. The information is designed to provide guidance to Dealer Member firms in the preparation of procedures tailored to the specific needs of their individual environment in meeting the stated control objectives.

Dealer Members must maintain a detailed written record which as a minimum should include the specific policies and procedures approved by senior management to comply with these Internal Control Policy Statements. These policies and procedures must be reviewed and approved in writing by senior management at least annually, or more frequently as the situation arises, for their adequacy and suitability. One method of documentation is to note on a copy of this Statement the recommended policies and procedures which have been selected, and details of their performance such as who performs them, when, and how performance is evidenced. Other forms of documentation, such as procedures manuals, flow charts and narrative descriptions are recommended.

MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR INSTITUTIONAL CUSTOMER ACCOUNT OPENING, OPERATION AND SUPERVISION

Introduction

This Rule covers the opening, operation and supervision of Institutional Customer accounts, which are accounts for investors that are not individuals who meet the requirements of the definition herein.

This document sets out minimum standards governing the opening, operation and supervision of Institutional Customer accounts.

Pursuant to Rule 38, the Dealer Member must provide adequate resources and qualified supervisors to achieve compliance with these standards.

Adherence to the minimum standards requires that a Dealer Member have in place procedures to properly open and operate Institutional Customer accounts and monitor their activity. Following these minimum standards, however, does not:

- (a) relieve a Dealer Member from complying with specific SRO by-laws, rules, regulations and policies and securities or other legislation applicable to particular trades or accounts; (e.g. best execution obligation, restrictions on short selling, order designations and identifiers, exposure of customer orders, trade disclosures);
- (b) relieve a Dealer Member from the obligation to impose higher standards where circumstances clearly dictate the necessity to do so to ensure proper supervision; or
- (c) preclude a Dealer Member from establishing higher standards.

Any account other than an Institutional Customer account governed by these standards will be governed by the Minimum Standards for Retail Account Supervision (Rule 2500).

A Dealer Member may, with the written approval of the Corporation, establish policies and procedures that differ from this Rule, provided that, in the opinion of the Corporation, the Dealer Member's policies and procedures are appropriate to supervise trading of its Institutional Customers.

I. Customer Suitability

1. When dealing with an Institutional Customer, a Dealer Member must make a determination whether the customer is sufficiently sophisticated and capable of making its own investment decisions in order to determine the level of suitability owed to that Institutional Customer. Where a Dealer Member has reasonable grounds for concluding that the Institutional Customer is capable of making an independent investment decision and independently evaluating the investment risk, then a Dealer Member's suitability obligation is fulfilled for that transaction. If no such reasonable grounds exist, then the Dealer Member must take steps to ensure that the Institutional Customer fully understands the investment product, including the potential risks.
2. In making a determination whether a customer is capable of independently evaluating investment risk and is exercising independent judgment, relevant considerations could include:
 - (a) any written or oral understanding that exists between a Dealer Member and its customer regarding the customer's reliance on the Dealer Member;
 - (b) the presence or absence of a pattern of acceptance of the Dealer Member's recommendations;
 - (c) the use by a customer of ideas, suggestions, market views and information obtained from other Dealer Members, market professionals or issuers particularly those relating to the same type of securities;
 - (d) the use of one or more investment dealers, portfolio managers, investment counsel or other third party advisors;
 - (e) the general level of experience of the customer in financial markets;
 - (f) the specific experience of the customer with the type of instrument(s) under consideration, including the customer's ability to independently evaluate how market developments would affect the security and ancillary risks such as currency rate risk; and
 - (g) the complexity of the securities involved.
3. A Dealer Member has no suitability obligation under Section I.1 and is not required to make a determination required under Section I.2 when the Dealer Member executes a trade on the instructions of another Dealer Member, a portfolio manager, investment counsel, exempt market dealer, bank, trust company or insurer.
4. A Dealer Member has no suitability obligation under Section I.1 and is not required to make a determination required under Section I.2 when the Dealer Member executes a trade on the instructions of an Institutional Customer that:

- (a) is also a “permitted client”, as defined in National Instrument 31-103;
- (b) is not a customer described in Section 1.3; and
- (c) has waived, in writing, the protections offered to them under Sections 1.1 and 1.2.

II. New Account Documentation and Approval

- .
- 3. Each new account must be approved by a Supervisor who is Department Head or his or her designate prior to the initial trade or promptly thereafter. Such approval must be recorded in writing or auditable electronic form.
- .

III. Establishing and Maintaining Procedures, Delegation and Education

Introduction

Effective self-regulation begins with the Dealer Member establishing and maintaining a supervisory environment which fosters both the business objectives of the Dealer Member and maintains the self-regulatory process. To that end, a Dealer Member must establish and maintain procedures which are supervised by qualified individuals.

A. Establishing Procedures

- 1. A Dealer Member must appoint a Designated Supervisor, who has the necessary knowledge of industry regulations and Dealer Member policy to properly establish procedures reasonably designed to ensure adherence to regulatory requirements and to supervise Institutional Customer Accounts.
- 2. Written policies must be established to document and communicate supervisory requirements.
- 3. All alternate Supervisors must be advised of and adequately trained for their supervisory roles.
- 4. All policies established or amended should have senior management approval.

B. Maintaining Procedures

- 1. Evidence of supervisory reviews must be maintained for seven years and on-site for one year.
- 2. A periodic review of supervisory policies and procedures should be carried out by the Dealer Member to ensure they continue to be effective and reflect any material changes to the businesses involved.

C. Delegation of Procedures

- 1. Tasks and procedures may be delegated but not responsibility.
- 2. The Supervisor delegating the task must take steps designed to ensure that these tasks are being performed adequately and that exceptions are brought to his/her attention.
- 3. Those to whom tasks are delegated must have the qualifications to perform them and should be advised in writing what is expected.

D. Education

- 1. The Dealer Member’s current sales practices and policies must be made available to all sales and supervisory personnel. Dealer Members should obtain and record acknowledgements from all sales and supervisory personnel that they have received, read and understood the policies and procedures relevant to their responsibilities.
- 2. A major aspect of self-regulation is the ongoing education of staff. The Dealer Member is responsible for appropriate training of institutional sales and trading staff, as well as ensuring that Continuing Education requirements are being met.

E. Compliance Monitoring Procedures

Dealer Members must establish compliance procedures for monitoring and reporting adherence to rules, regulations, requirements, policies and procedures. A compliance monitoring system should be reasonably designed to prevent and detect violations. The compliance monitoring system will ordinarily include a procedure for reporting results of its monitoring efforts to management and, where appropriate, the board of directors or its equivalent.

IV. Supervision of Accounts

A. Policies and Procedures

1. Dealer Members must implement policies and procedures for the supervision and review of activity in the accounts of Institutional Customers. Such procedures may include periodic reviews of account activity, exception reports or other means of analysis.
2. The policies and procedures may vary depending on factors including, but not limited to, the type of product, type of customer, type of activity or level of activity.
3. The policies and procedures should outline the action to be taken to deal with problems or issues identified from supervisory reviews.

B. Account Activity Detection

The supervisory procedures and the compliance monitoring procedures should be reasonably designed to detect account activity that is or may be a violation of applicable securities legislation, requirements of any self-regulatory organization applicable to the account activity and the rules and policies of any marketplace on which the account activity takes place, and would include the following:

1. Manipulative or deceptive methods of trading;
2. Trading in restricted list securities;
3. Employee or proprietary account front running;
4. Exceeding position or exercise limits on derivative products; and
5. Transactions raising a suspicion of money laundering or terrorist financing activity.

V. Client Complaints

1. Each Dealer Member must establish procedures to deal effectively with client complaints.
 - (a) The Dealer Member must acknowledge all written client complaints.
 - (b) The Dealer Member must convey the results of its investigation of a client complaint to the client in due course.
 - (c) Client complaints involving the sales practices of a Dealer Member, its partners, Directors, Officers or employees must be in writing and signed by the client and then handled by sales supervisors or compliance staff. Copies of all such written submissions must be filed with the compliance department of the Dealer Member.
 - (d) Each Dealer Member must ensure that Registered Representatives and their Supervisors are made aware of all complaints filed by their clients.
2. All pending legal actions must be made known to head office.
3. Each Dealer Member must put procedures in place so that senior management is made aware of complaints of serious misconduct and of all legal actions.
4. Each Dealer Member must maintain an orderly record of complaints together with follow-up documentation for regular internal/external compliance reviews. This record must cover the past two years at least.

5. Each Dealer Member must establish procedures to ensure that breaches of the by-laws, regulations, rules and policies of the SROs as well as applicable securities legislation are subjected to appropriate internal disciplinary procedures.
6. When a Dealer Member finds complaints to be a significant factor, internal procedures and practices should be reviewed, with recommendations for changes to be submitted to the appropriate management level.

RULE 3100

REPORTING AND RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

Introduction

RULE 3400

RESEARCH RESTRICTIONS AND DISCLOSURE REQUIREMENTS

Introduction

This Rule establishes requirements that analysts must follow when publishing research reports or making recommendations. These requirements represent the minimum procedural requirements that Dealer Members must have in place to minimize potential conflicts of interest. The Disclosure required under Rule 3400 must be clear, comprehensive and prominent. Boilerplate disclosure is not sufficient.

These requirements are based on the recommendations of the Securities Industry Committee on Analyst Standards with input from both industry and non-industry groups.

Requirements

- 1. Each Dealer Member shall have written conflict of interest policies and procedures, in order to minimize conflicts faced by analysts. All such policies must be approved by and filed with the Corporation.
- 2. Each Dealer Member shall prominently disclose in any research report:
 - (a) any information regarding its, or its analyst's business with or relationship with any issuer which is the subject of the report which might reasonably be expected to indicate a potential conflict of interest on the part of the Dealer Member or the analyst in making a recommendation with regard to the issuer. Such information includes, but is not limited to:
 - (i) whether, as of the end of the month immediately preceding the date of issuance of the research report or the end of the second most recent month if the issue date is less than 10 calendar days after the end of the most recent month, the Dealer Member and its affiliates collectively beneficially own 1% or more of any class of the issuer's equity securities,
 - (ii) whether the analyst or any associate of the analyst responsible for the report or recommendation or any individuals directly involved in the preparation of the report hold or are short any of the issuer's securities directly or through derivatives,
 - (iii) whether any partner, director or officer of a Dealer Member or any analyst involved in the preparation of a report on the issuer has, during the preceding 12 months provided services to the issuer for remuneration other than normal course investment advisory or trade execution services,

- (iv) whether the Dealer Member firm has provided investment banking services for the issuer during the 12 months preceding the date of issuance of the research report or recommendation,
 - (v) the name of any partner, director, officer, employee or agent of the Dealer Member who is an officer, director or employee of the issuer, or who serves in any advisory capacity to the issuer, and
 - (vi) whether the Dealer Member is making a market in an equity or equity related security of the subject issuer.
- (b) the Dealer Member's system for rating investment opportunities and how each recommendation fits within the system and shall disclose on their websites or otherwise, quarterly, the percentage of its recommendations that fall into each category of their recommended terminology; and
- (c) its policies and procedures regarding the dissemination of research.

A Dealer Member shall comply with subsections (b) and (c) by disclosing such information in the report or by disclosing in the report where such information can be obtained.

3. Where an employee of a Dealer Member makes a public comment (which shall include an interview) about the merits of an issuer or its securities, a reference must be made to the existence of any relevant research report issued by the Dealer Member containing the disclosure as required above, if one exists, or it must be disclosed that such a report does not exist.
4. Where a Dealer Member distributes a research report prepared by an independent third party to its clients under the third party name, the Dealer Member must disclose any items which would be required to be disclosed under requirement 2 of Rule 3400 had the report been issued in the Dealer Member's name. This requirement does not apply to research reports issued a dealer regulated by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority or issued by persons governed by other regulators approved by the Corporation, and does not apply if the Dealer Member simply provides to clients access to the independent third party research reports or provides independent third party research at the request of clients. However, where this requirement does not apply, Dealer Members must disclose that such research is not prepared subject to Canadian disclosure requirements.
5. No Dealer Member shall issue a research report prepared by an analyst if the analyst or any associate of the analyst serves as an officer, director or employee of the issuer or serves in any advisory capacity to the issuer.
6. Any Dealer Member that distributes research reports to clients or prospective clients in its own name must disclose its research dissemination policies and procedures on its website or by other means.
7. Each Dealer Member who distributes research reports to clients or prospective clients shall have policies and procedures reasonably designed to prohibit any trading by its partners, directors, officers, employees or agents resulting in an increase, a decrease, or liquidation of a position in a listed security, or a derivative instrument based principally on a listed or quoted security, with knowledge of or in anticipation of the distribution of a research report, a new recommendation or a change in a recommendation relating to a security that could reasonably be expected to have an effect on the price of the security.
8. No individual directly involved in the preparation of the report can effect a trade in a security of an issuer, or a derivative instrument whose value depends principally on the value of a security of an issuer, regarding which the analyst has an outstanding recommendation for a period of 30 calendar days before and 5 calendar days after issuance of the research report, unless that individual receives the previous written approval of a designated partner, officer or director of the Dealer Member. No approval may be given to allow an analyst or any individual involved in the preparation of the report to make a trade that is contrary to the analyst's current recommendation, unless special circumstances exist.
9. Dealer Members must disclose in research reports if in the previous 12 months the analyst responsible for preparing the report received compensation based upon the Dealer Member's investment banking revenues.
10. No Dealer Member may pay any bonus, salary or other form of compensation to an analyst that is directly based upon one or more specific investment banking services transactions.
11. Each Dealer Member shall have policies and procedures in place reasonably to prevent recommendations in research reports from being influenced by the investment- banking department or the issuer. Such policies and procedures shall, at minimum:
 - (i) prohibit any requirement for approval of research reports by the investment banking department;

- (ii) limit comments from the investment banking department on research reports to correction of factual errors;
 - (iii) prevent the investment banking department from receiving advance notice of ratings or rating changes on covered companies; and
 - (iv) establish systems to control and keep records of the flow of information between analysts and investment banking departments regarding issuers that are the subject of current or prospective research reports.
12. No Dealer Member may directly or indirectly offer favorable research, a specific rating or a specific price target, a delay in changing a rating or price target or threaten to change research, a rating or a price target of an issuer as consideration or inducement for the receipt of business or compensation from an issuer.
13. Dealer Members must disclose in research reports if and to what extent an analyst has viewed the material operations of an issuer. Dealer Members must also disclose where there has been a payment or reimbursement by the issuer of the analyst's travel expenses for such visit.
14. No Dealer Member may issue a research report for an equity or equity related security regarding an issuer for which the Dealer Member acted as manager or co-manager of
- (i) an initial public offering of equity or equity related securities, for 40 calendar days following the date of the offering; or
 - (ii) a secondary offering of equity or equity related securities, for 10 calendar days following the date of the offering;
- but requirement 14(i) and (ii) do not prevent a Dealer Member from issuing a research report concerning the effects of significant news about or a significant event affecting the issuer within the applicable 40 or 10 day period.
- 14.1. Requirement 14 does not apply where the subject securities are exempted from restrictions under provisions relating to market stabilization in securities legislation or in the Universal Market Integrity Rules.
15. When a Dealer Member distributes a research report covering six or more issuers, such a report may indicate where the disclosures required under Rule 3400 may be found.
16. Dealer Members must issue notice of their intention to suspend or discontinue coverage of an issuer. However, no issuance is required when the sole reason for the suspension is that an issuer has been placed on a Dealer Member's restricted list.
17. Dealer Members must obtain an annual certification from the head of the research department and chief executive officer which states that their analysts are familiar with and have complied with the CFA Institute Code of Ethics and Standards of Professional Conduct whether they are members of the CFA Institute or not.
18. Where a supervisory analyst of a Dealer Member serves as an officer or director of an issuer, then the Dealer Member must not provide research on the issuer.
19. Dealer Members must pre-approve analysts outside business activities.
20. Where Dealer Members set price targets as recommended under guideline 4, Dealer Members must disclose the valuation methods used.

Guidelines

In addition to the above requirements, when establishing policies and procedures as referred to under requirement 1 of Rule 3400, Dealer Members must comply with the following best practices, where practicable:

- 1. Dealer Members should distinguish clearly in each research report between information provided by the issuer or obtained elsewhere and the analyst's own assumptions and opinions.
- 2. Dealer Members should disclose in their research reports and recommendations reliance by the analyst upon any report or study by third party experts other than the analyst responsible for the report. Where there is such reliance, the name of the third party experts should be disclosed.

3. Dealer Members should adopt standards of research coverage that include, at a minimum, the obligation to maintain and publish current financial estimates and recommendations on securities followed, and to revisit such estimates and recommendations within a reasonable time following the release of material information by an issuer or the occurrence of other relevant events.
4. Dealer Members should set price targets for recommended transactions, where practicable, and with the appropriate disclosure.
5. Dealer Members should use specific securities terminology in research reports where required to do so by Securities Legislation. Where such terminology is not required, Dealer Members should use the specific technical terminology that is required by the relevant industry, professional association or regulatory authority or in the absence of required terminology use technical terminology that is customarily in use. Where necessary, for full understanding, a glossary should be included.
6. A Dealer Member should make its research reports widely available through its websites or by other means for all of its clients whom the Dealer Member has determined are entitled to receive such research reports at the same time.
7. Where feasible by virtue of the number of analysts, Dealer Members should appoint one or more supervisory analyst or head of research to be responsible for reviewing and approving research reports as required under Rule 29.7, who should be a partner, director or officer of the Dealer Member and should have the CFA designation or other appropriate qualifications. Dealer Members may have more than one supervisory analyst where necessary.
8. Dealer Members should require their analyst employees to obtain the Chartered Financial Analyst designation or other appropriate qualifications.
9. Dealer Members should require that the head of the research department, or in small firms where there is no head then the analyst or analysts report to a senior officer or partner who is not the head of the investment banking department. However, no policies or procedures will be approved under requirement 1 unless the Corporation is satisfied that they address the relationship between the investment- banking department and research department.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3400-1

RECOMMENDATIONS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note provides additional information about determining what constitutes a recommendation for the purpose of Rule 3400.

WHAT IS A RECOMMENDATION?

This Guidance Note does not define all situations that may be appropriately described as a recommendation. Whether or not a recommendation has been made will depend upon all of the relevant facts and circumstances surrounding a trade. These circumstances would include a “reasonable person” test, i.e. would a reasonable person in similar circumstances understand that a recommendation had been made.

The examples provided are not exhaustive or determinative. They are provided solely to assist Dealer Members, bearing in mind that each situation will be judged upon its own facts and circumstances.

ISSUES AND EXAMPLES TO CONSIDER IN DETERMINING WHETHER A RECOMMENDATION IS MADE

- (1) A waiver or disclaimer given to a client stating that the information given to the client by the Dealer Member is not a recommendation is not determinative.
- (2) Marking a trade “solicited” or “unsolicited” will not determine that a recommendation has been made.
- (3) The medium or method of discussing a trade is not determinative. It is the substance of the communication that is the primary factor.
- (4) A Dealer Member’s calling itself a discount broker or an “order execution only service” is not determinative.
- (5) A lower commission is not relevant to determining if a recommendation has been made.
- (6) Whether a transaction is a “buy” or “sell” is not relevant.
- (7) The lack of a prior relationship between the client and the Dealer Member does not imply that the Dealer Member is not making recommendations.
- (8) A Dealer Member would usually be making a recommendation under the following circumstances:
 - (i) providing information that is individually tailored to a specific client or class of clients;
 - (ii) developing systems to “data mine” clients’ habits and investment preferences and using this information to target specific clients;
 - (iii) promoting a specific security or trading strategy to a client;
 - (iv) the Dealer Member telling a client that it is taking into account the client’s objectives and financial situations with respect to the transaction; and
 - (v) when the client has entered an order on-line, pursuant to the Dealer Member’s recommendation.
- (9) A Dealer Member would not usually be making a recommendation under the following circumstances:
 - (i) providing or making available investment information, unless the Dealer Member has made an individually tailored proposal;
 - (ii) informing clients or prospective clients of the availability of general categories of investment information;
 - (iii) making general advertisements or statements without a recommendation;

- (iv) posting research on a website or another form of wide distribution;
- (v) distributing a general list of securities for sale;
- (vi) offering hyperlinks or portals to other investment-related web pages;
- (vii) responding to a client's request for certain kinds of investment information; and
- (viii) operating an "order-execution only" service, approved by the Corporation in accordance with the IROC Dealer Member rules and the guidance provided here.

For purposes of this Guidance Note, the term "investment information" means information prepared by the Dealer Member (or a third party on behalf of the Dealer Member) which includes financial market information, news, research, opinions, charting and portfolio tracking information, asset allocation models, analyst consensus reports, stock quotes, public disclosure documents (including extracts) and information relating to offerings and sales material.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3500-1

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION CONTAINMENT

INTRODUCTION

Section 3507(5) requires that a Dealer Member have appropriate procedures to contain material non-public information to prevent its use for illegal insider trading. This Guidance Note draws upon the best practices of Dealer Members for monitoring and/or restricting transactions, including the use of "Grey" (or "Watch") and "Restricted" Lists. IROC recognizes that procedures will vary from firm to firm depending upon the nature of the firm's business, its size, clientele and the markets in which it does business.

While some Dealer Members do not engage in corporate finance or investment banking activities, all Dealer Members should be mindful of the need to contain inside information which may come into the knowledge of the Dealer Member's employees. This knowledge may be acquired through trading by issuers, research or relationships between employees and corporate insiders. Dealer Members should develop procedures to bring to the attention of management, any instances of non-compliance with the requirements.

Dealer Members should also review their policies and procedures for confidential information containment on a regular basis, including the effectiveness of the Grey and Restricted Lists.

INFORMATION BARRIERS (FIREWALLS)

Dealer Members should ensure they have appropriate physical and procedural means of restricting access to confidential information to only those who need the information. A record of persons with access to the information should be maintained. The following are guidelines for the establishment and maintenance of these information barriers:

Responsible officer - Dealer Members should assign a qualified senior officer, or a sub-committee of the board, accountable to the Audit Committee of the board to oversee the design, implementation and maintenance of the Dealer Member's containment program. The program should be fully documented, including provisions for periodic reviews and timely updates, continuous improvement and continuing staff education.

Definition of confidential information - Dealer Members should have a clear definition of confidential information in the context of the Member and its employees' dealings with issuers.

Education of employees - Dealer Members should have a program to inform employees of the relevant policies and procedures involving the handling of confidential information. The program should include relevant extracts from the "red flags" noted in this Guidance Note. Dealer Members should also ensure that consistent answers are provided to questions for clarification. Dealer Members should also obtain clear, formal employee undertakings to abide by the policies and procedures.

Physical and technological barriers - Dealer Members should have effective physical and technological barriers limiting access to documents and records (both physical and electronic) containing confidential information to those authorized to view them. There should be effective and procedural deterrents supportive and complementary to these barriers. These deterrents should be tested and reviewed regularly.

Outside parties - Any outside parties involved in the implementation or testing of policies and procedures, including deterrents should be bound by solid confidentiality restrictions.

“Over the wall”- Dealer Members should have established processes by which outside individuals might be brought over the wall (information barrier). These processes should include keeping a record on who is brought over the wall and when. This would include both employees and outside consultants or advisors who have access to the confidential information.

Introducing/Carrying brokers – The parties should enter into a clear, non-conflicting agreement regarding respective responsibilities for information containment and leakage detection. The agreements should be reviewed annually.

GREY (OR “WATCH”) LISTS

A Grey List is a list of issuers on which the Dealer Member or any of its employees has confidential information. The grey list has limited circulation for the purpose of watching any trading activity which might suggest that the information has been leaked or used inappropriately. The following guidelines assist members in the creation and use of the list.

Establish clear guidelines – Dealer Members should establish clear guidelines which set out the purpose of the Grey List. This would include the kinds of events that should see a security or family or securities added to or removed from the list and the process of adding or removing from the list. The guidelines should set out the information to be contained on the list including the dates and times of all additions and deletions. The person in charge of maintaining the list should be named, as well as the limited distribution of the list. The safe storage of the list and its data should be noted. The guidelines should specify the ways in which the list will be applied to the firm’s continuous self-supervision activities.

Education of Employees – All persons who are likely to come in contact with confidential information should be trained on Grey List procedures.

List Preparation – The Dealer Member should ensure that access to corporate finance or research department meetings (or the minutes from the meetings) is part of the Grey List preparation

Insider Information on new account applications – Dealer Members should establish a process to capture and update the insider status information received on new account applications. This would include all accounts over which the insider has authority. This information should be available to all supervisory employees.

Trading reviews – Dealer Members should ensure that Grey List trading reviews cover all accounts at the Dealer Member, including:

- proprietary and inventory accounts
- accounts held by employees and their associates at other firms
- accounts of insiders of the issuer.

The review should include securities which are related or derivatives of the Grey List securities.

Questionable Trading – The Dealer Member’s policies and procedures should include the clear process to be followed when questionable trading is detected.

Managing the List – The Dealer Member’s policies and procedures should include an adjudication process for possible exceptions to the list. In addition, there should be a procedure for managing research on Grey List issuers.

RESTRICTED LISTS

Dealer Members should maintain a list of issuers with whom the Dealer Member has a current, publicly disclosed involvement which requires restrictions on the Dealer Member’s trading or advising activities.

Establish Clear Guidelines - Dealer Members should establish clear guidelines which set out the purpose of the Restricted List. This would include the kinds of events that should see a security or family or securities added to or removed from the list and the process of adding or removing from the list. The guidelines should set out the information to be contained on the list including the dates and times of all additions and deletions. The person in charge of maintaining the list should be named, as well as the distribution of the list. The archiving of the list and its data should be noted. The guidelines should specify the ways in which the list will be applied to the firm’s continuous self-supervision activities.

Education of Employees – Dealer Members should train all employees involved in taking orders and handling trades on the trading restrictions of issuers on the Restricted List. If there are categories of restriction, these should be clearly explained to affected employees and their supervisors.

List Preparation – Dealer Members should ensure that all updates to the list are authorized, recorded and disseminated to all employees affected on a reliable and timely basis.

Trading reviews – Dealer Members should ensure that Restricted List trading reviews cover all accounts at the Dealer Member, including:

- proprietary and inventory accounts
- accounts held by employees and their associates at other firms
- accounts of insiders of the issuer

The review should include securities which are related or derivatives of the Restricted List securities.

Questionable Trading – The Dealer Member's policies and procedures should include the clear process to be followed when questionable trading is detected.

Managing the List – The Dealer Member's policies and procedures should also include an adjudication process for possible exceptions to the list. In addition, there should be a procedure for managing research reports, sales literature, and investment recommendations on Restricted List issuers.

“RED FLAGS”

There are “red flags” that indicate possible insider trading activity. Dealer Members should have trading surveillance which would detect this kind of activity and train their employees to watch for and report any suspicious client activity to management.

Since an order for an insider must be so indicated upon entry, a Dealer Member's compliance department should have available a report of all insider trades. This may be obtained from an outside vendor or from the TSX. The report could provide a basis for trading reviews to identify the following:

- A change in the pattern of trading activity of an insider account from inactivity to trading, or from buying and selling to abruptly aggressively buying or selling a significant position in the security.
- Immediate buying or selling of a significant inside position by a new account.
- Orders placed by an insider outside of the recent trading range, for example, a buy order at $1.20 when the recent trading range was from $.90 to $1.00.
- An insider account making a significant profit on a quick flip in the security, or liquidating the security position and then re-establishing it at a more favorable price.
- New accounts that are not insiders that immediately take a substantial position in the security which is traded for a quick profit. The accounts may belong to a nominee or have received an insider tip.
- A pattern of consistent profitable trading by an insider or other account in the security prior to a news release.
- Trading activity by insider accounts and the accumulation of significant positions in the security by other accounts immediately prior to the security being placed on the Member's Grey List or during the time the security is on the Member's Grey List.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3500-2

CLIENT PRIORITY IN TSX VENTURE PRIVATE PLACEMENTS

INTRODUCTION

Section 3504 requires Dealer Members to give priority to client orders over all other orders for the same security at the same price. Furthermore, pursuant to the TSX Venture rules, a Dealer Member must observe client priority in private placements where the Member is acting as underwriter, agent, advisor or a member of a selling group or where non-clients at the Dealer Member hold 20% or more of the issued and outstanding securities of the issuer.

PROCEDURES

When a Dealer Member is involved in a small financing or has a small participation in a larger financing, it is impractical to solicit interest from all of the Dealer Member's advisers or from all of their clients. To assist Members in observing client priority, the following procedures are suggested:

General statement – The Dealer Member should send a general statement to clients inviting clients to express their interest in any private placements to their advisor. Possible methods of informing clients are by a general mailing, a note on monthly statements, a change to the account opening packages or other means. The communication to clients should include a general reference to the Dealer Member's procedures to be followed by clients in expressing an interest. The objective is to ensure that clients know and are occasionally reminded of the Dealer Member's procedures.

Specific private placement – For a specific private placement, the Dealer Member must confirm that the company has issued a news release as required by the TSX Venture announcing the amount and the price of the private placement. Non-client subscriptions can only be received after three clear days. Client orders received after the three days have passed still take priority if the final allocation of the securities by the Dealer Member has not been made and communicated to the issuer.

IIROC acknowledges that in non-brokered private placements, the issuer determines the final allocation of securities. However, the Dealer Member should ensure that the client interest is satisfied prior to any non-client participation.

Dealer Member's procedures should require that an RR immediately communicate any expressions of interest to a central location. Failure to do so should be seen as a serious breach of internal procedures likely leading to a disciplinary proceeding.

RECEIPT OF COMPENSATION

Dealer Members should note that receipt by the Dealer Member of a finder's fee or other form of compensation in connection with the distribution of securities, (excepting subsequent resale commissions), is evidence that the Dealer Member is acting as an adviser, agent or underwriter.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3500-3

PRE-MARKETING OF DISTRIBUTIONS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note interprets Dealer Member Rule 3500. Dealer Members should also consult the CSA's notice "Pre-marketing activities in the context of Bought Deals" – CSA Staff Notice 47-704.

EQUITY SECURITIES

Distributions, commencement of distribution and equity securities as referenced in Rule 3500 are defined in Rule 1000 of the IIROC Rulebook. With respect to the definition of equity securities, for the purpose of Rule 3500, Dealer Members should note that when an issuer has the right to pay the redemption or the retraction price by issuing equity shares at a discount to market price rather than paying in cash, this feature is known as a soft redemption or retraction. These securities resemble debt securities and should be treated as such. Preferred shares that carry a soft redemption or retraction feature should not be considered equity securities for purposes of the Rule.

COMMENCEMENT OF DISTRIBUTION DISCUSSIONS

Commencement of distribution refers to the time when a Dealer Member has had distribution discussions with an issuer or selling security holder, or another underwriter that has had discussions with an issuer or selling security holder, that are of "sufficient specificity" that it is reasonable to expect that the Dealer Member (alone or with the other underwriter) will propose an underwriting of securities to the issuer or selling security holder.

The definition in the Rule is designed to ensure that confidential information concerning the issuer's intentions regarding a proposed financing is not communicated to potential purchasers. Private discussions would fall under the definition. However, a public announcement by an issuer of its financial intentions, for example at a public meeting, at which a Dealer Member is present, would not generally be considered distribution discussions, unless it is followed quickly with an offer from the Dealer Member. Where there is a significant time lag between the discussions and the offer, it would generally indicate that the discussions were not of "sufficient specificity" or that the Dealer Member declined to pursue the distribution. Therefore, such discussions would probably not fit under the definition. If there were no distribution discussions and the issuer simply accepts an offer to underwrite a distribution from a Dealer Member, then the commencement of distribution discussions occurs immediately upon acceptance of the offer. In that case, it may end virtually immediately with the issuance of a news release.

The time period restrictions in Rule 3500 are the same with respect to both principal trading activities and with respect to restrictions on the communication of inside information.

Dealer Members should note that the commencement of the distribution discussions is not affected by the commencement of the restricted period under UMIR. Generally, the commencement of distribution discussions occur prior to the restrictions on principal trading activities and trading of solicited orders by underwriters as contemplated under UMIR.

Timing of commencement of distribution discussions - The commencement of distribution discussions will vary among Dealer Members according to their different underwriting processes. At the latest, it will have commenced at the time the offer to underwrite is made to the issuer.

Although a final decision to make the offer is to be made by an underwriting committee at the Dealer Member, for some Dealer Members, this committee's decision is only a formality. For example, when personnel believe that the committee will follow their recommendation, the decision to make the recommendation could constitute commencement of distribution discussions. As a result, the distribution will have commenced before the committee's decision is made. In these circumstances, there can be no further discussion with potential purchasers by anyone with knowledge of the distribution discussions or by anyone instructed by personnel with knowledge.

End of restrictions - The Rule sets out the three events that allow the Dealer Member to have communications with potential purchasers. One of the events is issuance and filing of a news release, in accordance with regulatory requirements, announcing the signing of the underwriting agreement. Section 7.1 of National Instrument 44-101 sets out conditions that must be met for issuance and filing of a news release. Since some of the conditions in section 7.1 relate to events that must happen after the news release is issued, this places a Dealer Member under some uncertainty that legitimate marketing may become illegitimate pre-marketing if a condition is not met. This problem is exacerbated by the fact that a condition may be outside of the Dealer Member's control. IIROC will not interpret this Rule adversely to the Member if the failure to meet the condition was out of the Member's control.

News release – Although three events define the starting point for communications with potential investors, a news release announcing the distribution ensures that there is equal access to information and meets concerns about tipping and trading on undisclosed material information. Section 7.1 of NI 44-101 requires that a news release be issued and filed when entering into an enforceable underwriting agreement. This would precede communications with potential investors and the filing of a preliminary prospectus.

For listed securities, new releases must be disseminated according to the timely disclosure Policies of The Toronto Stock Exchange or the TSX Venture Exchange, as applicable.

EXEMPT DISTRIBUTIONS AND SPECIAL WARRANTS

When a Dealer Member reasonably expects that an exempt distribution will be abandoned, any subsequent pre-marketing activities will be subject to the Rule.

This interpretation applies to conventional private placements of securities where securities are intended to be issued and held under the "closed system", including special warrant offerings by issuers not eligible to use the short form prospectus system. However, the pre-marketing restrictions of the Rule are applicable to special warrant offerings by issuers if it is intended that the underlying securities are to be qualified by a short form prospectus. IIROC may grant an exemption from this provision if it is expected that there will be a significant delay before the preliminary short form prospectus is filed. A delay for the purpose of filing a notice under section 2.8 of NI 44-101 and the translation of documents to be incorporated by reference will not generally be considered to be a significant delay.

CERTIFICATE

The signing of the certificate is not done personally, but "on behalf of the Dealer Member". However, there may be circumstances where the conduct of the person signing may be considered by IIROC to be conduct unbecoming, not in the public interest or a matter of continued fitness for registration under securities law. The certificate permits delegation of the enquiry function, but delegation should only be to a senior executive who is appropriate to perform the enquiry.

GUIDANCE NOTE – 3500-4

SOLICITATION FEES

A solicitation fee may be paid by offerors to soliciting agents in the course of offers, including cash offers, share exchanges and rights offerings. In some cases, the terms of the offer provide that a solicitation fee be paid to the agent for each of its client's shares tendered into the offer, with a maximum payment per beneficial owner.

There may be circumstances where a client's share position exceeds the number required to obtain the maximum solicitation fee. In such a case it is improper to engage in any adjustments as a means of increasing the fees otherwise payable. For example, it is improper to break down house positions or create additional client account names. This creates the impression that several clients have tendered into the offer where, in fact, the position belongs to only one beneficial owner.

Dealer Members should appreciate that this type of activity is dishonest and fraudulent and would constitute "conduct unbecoming".

GUIDANCE NOTE 3600-1

REVIEW OF ADVERTISEMENTS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note provides Dealer Members assistance in complying with the requirements of Section 3602 for the review of advertising materials. Dealer Members should design policies and procedures appropriate for their size, structure, business and clientele, which may vary depending on the type of clients involved.

DEFINITIONS

A Dealer Member's policies and procedures should contain clear and comprehensive definitions of what constitutes advertising, sales literature and correspondence. This should include reference to all communications media, including print, broadcasting and electronic media. Whether materials are classified as correspondence, advertising or sales literature is determined by their content and purpose rather than by the means of dissemination.

COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS

A Dealer Member's policies and procedures should be designed to ensure that all advertisements, sales literature and correspondence comply with Rule 3600 and all other applicable requirements. For reference, these include the following:

- CIPF disclosure
- Disclosure of financial interest or underwriting liability
- Restricted share terms disclosure
- Related/connected issuer disclosure
- National Policy 47-201 – Trading Securities Using the Internet and Other Electronic Means
- Mutual fund advertising restrictions under National Instrument 81-102
- Requirements regarding the electronic delivery of documents

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE DESIGNATED PERSON

Under sub-section 3602(3), each Dealer Members must designate a partner, director or officer to be responsible for compliance with the requirements relating to advertising, sales literature and correspondence. Where a Dealer Member is organized into separate business units, additional persons may be designated for each unit.

The designated person should ensure that the policies and procedures in place are:

- reviewed periodically for adequacy

- revised to incorporate relevant rule changes; and
- communicated to applicable personnel.

The designated person should also ensure that individuals assigned specific responsibilities under the policies and procedures are aware of their duties and are properly fulfilling them.

GUIDELINES

The following items are guidelines for Dealer Members for developing policies and procedures:

Prohibitions – The policies and procedures should clearly state any prohibition on specific types of advertising, sales literature or correspondence.

Reviews – The policies and procedures should set out the specific review requirements (pre-use approval, post-use review or post-use sampling) for each type of material used by the Dealer Member.

Record retention – Copies of the materials reviewed and records of the reviews and approvals must be maintained as required under Rule 3800. Should a post-use or sampling review disclose problems, a record should be kept of the corrective action.

Pre-use approval – Research reports, market letters, telemarketing scripts, promotional seminar texts, original advertising and any material that is used to solicit clients and contains performance reports or summaries must be subject to pre-use approval for both content and disclosure requirements. The approval record should include the final copy, not a preliminary copy on which changes have been requested.

Templates – Original advertising refers to the first instance of use of an advertising template, which requires pre-approval. Continuous approval is not required for minor changes to the template such as the name of the RR or the location of the branch.

Performance reports – Pre-approval is required for any advertising, sales literature or correspondence used to solicit clients containing performance reports or summaries. This includes advertisements containing performance reports on mutual funds or asset allocation services which should be reviewed for compliance with Section 3602 and NI 81-102. Software-generated portfolio reports to clients or material containing price and volume charts for specific equities or yields for specific fixed income securities do not require pre-approval, but must be subject to post-issuance review.

Post-use or sampling – Where post-use or sampling reviews are used, the policies and procedures should outline the type of review required, responsibility for conducting reviews and taking remedial action as required, the sampling frequency or techniques and records retention requirements. This type of review may be appropriate for specific instances of template advertisements, daily comments following up on published research or correspondence to single clients or small groups of similar clients.

Cross-supervision – An individual should not be responsible for approval or supervision of their own materials.

Research reports by RRs – Any research reports originating outside of the research department must be reviewed for disclosure of relevant conflicts of interest as required under Rule 3600.

Third party research – Dealer Members should satisfy themselves as to the bona fides or any third party research provider. Material that is provided by a party not at arm's length to the issuer, such as an investor relations firm, would constitute sales literature if distributed by the Dealer Member.

INTERNET ADVERTISING

Under Sub-section 3602(3), advertising on the internet requires prior approval from the person designated by the Dealer Member to approve advertising. This would include websites that originate from individuals at the firm.

A Dealer Member must ensure that its policies and procedures regarding advertising approvals include the use of the internet. The authorization for a web-site and the documents accessible on the web-site must be approved by the designated person. Printed copies of the documents must be kept on file by the Dealer Member as evidence of the written approval.

A password protected web-site, such as a site to enter orders, would not fall under the definition of advertising, but material on the web-site regarding specific securities or strategies may constitute sales literature.

A simple link at another entities' web-site, whether or not paid for is not an advertisement, unless it is accompanied by text or graphics promoting the Dealer Member's services.

Dealer Members are cautioned that electronic documents which are stored on the internet and therefore accessible by foreign residents could expose the Dealer Member to foreign jurisdiction regulatory requirements. An example is the rules in the U.S. Investment Advisors Act. Dealer Members may wish to consult their legal counsel on this matter.

In addition, Dealer Members are reminded that any internet advertising must include the required references to CIPF. It is suggested that the web-site include a link to the CIPF web-site address [<http://www.cipf.ten.net/-fcp/>]

GUIDANCE NOTE 3600-2

COMMUNICATIONS BY E-MAIL AND THE INTERNET

INTRODUCTION

Dealer Members should ensure that they have adequate policies and procedures relating to the use of e-mail and the internet, including training on anti-virus protection. Those policies may include the review of outgoing and incoming e-mail through the use of software or sampling techniques. Dealer Members should consult their counsel to ensure that their policies and procedures include proper notice to their employees that e-mails may be subject to supervisory review.

GUIDELINES

Outside origination – Dealer Members should have policies which ensure that all business-related e-mails to clients and prospective clients are logged on the Dealer Member's computer systems for future reference. This can be done by:

- providing secure remote access for employees and agents to the Dealer Member's systems;
- prohibiting the sending of all business-related e-mails through home; or
- requiring that all business-related e-mails are copied to the Dealer Member.

Review of advertising e-mails – Dealer Members should have appropriate record retention and sampling procedures to ensure that e-mails sent to clients that fall under Section 3602 are properly approved and comply with the Dealer Member's policies and procedures.

Client orders – Clients and RRs should be discouraged from using e-mails to communicate orders. If the practice is permitted by the Dealer Member, clients should be warned that communication of orders through an e-mail is subject to a number of risks such as delays in opening and executing instructions or inadequate instructions being given.

Anonymous communications – By making anonymous representations or recommendations in internet chat rooms or bulletin boards, registered representatives may violate conflict of interest or other business conduct rules. Members should therefore have policies and procedures in place to restrict their registered persons from engaging in such activities.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3600-3

RESEARCH REPORT DISCLOSURES AND BEST PRACTICES

This Guidance Note provides guidance on the interpretation of Rule 3600 relating to the preparation of research reports and advice on best practices for Dealer Members.

APPLICATION OF THE RULE

The definition of "analyst" under Rule 1000 includes individuals that are held out as analysts as well as individuals whose responsibilities to the Dealer Member include the preparation of research reports. The definition is meant to include individuals that are employed as analysts, whatever their title. The definition is not meant to include registered representatives who produce reports and written recommendations that may be similar to research reports. Such communications from registered representatives are not subject to the research report requirements under Rule 3600. However, a Dealer Member should ensure that its registered representatives are not held out as analysts and that the registered representative's communications are clear in that they present the registered representative's own conclusions and not those of the Dealer Member.

The definition of "research report" is broad and applies to any material distributed to clients or the general public which contains an analyst's recommendation concerning the purchase, sale or holding of a security. Sales and marketing material that do not make reference to an analyst's recommendation are not considered research reports. The following are also not considered research reports:

- Reports relating to government debt or government-guaranteed debt; and
- Market analysis, market index, and sector reports.

Dealer Members may provide factual information about fixed income securities such as coupon rate, terms, par amount, weight in indices, and debt ratings from third party agencies. Providing such information is not considered equivalent to making a recommendation. However, statements that include implied recommendations, such as stating that an issue is under-priced, are considered recommendations and are subject to the research report requirements under Rule 3600.

In general, Dealer Members should ensure that individuals that prepare sales and marketing material are aware of the definition of "research report" so as not to inadvertently issue something that would be classified as research.

DISCLOSURES AND OTHER REQUIREMENTS

To meet the requirements under Rule 3600, Dealer Members must ensure that the required disclosure is fairly represented. The following points should be observed:

- (i) research report disclosures should be in the same type size and legibility as that in the body of the report;
- (ii) disclosures should be prominent and not in a mass of fine print or notes on the back pages of a lengthy report;
- (iii) disclosures should be specific and consistent. For example, a disclosure indicating that the Dealer Member may have had "a relationship with an issuer" is too general.

Disclosure of financial interest (Paragraph 3607(2)(ii))

When disclosing ownership interests, a Dealer Member is not required to include information for administrative or clerical staff involved in preparing a research report, but only those who create content.

Disclosure of paid services (Paragraph 3607(2)(iii))

Disclosure must be provided for all fees received from a subject issuer within the preceding 12 months by the Dealer Member and any partner, director, or applicable analyst, whether acting for the Dealer Member, or in a personal capacity. The Rule does not require duplicate disclosure for the individuals when the Dealer Member discloses the services. The Rule excludes normal investment-advisory or trade-execution services, such as an investment account by the issuer.

System for rating investments and distributing research (Section 3608)

A Dealer Member must disclose the system it uses for rating investments and how its research is disseminated. The Dealer Member may have separate systems for assigning ratings to the different types of securities on which it provides research.

A Dealer Member's policies and procedures for distributing research should include:

- (i) who its research is available to (for example, clients only);
- (ii) how its research is distributed (for example, electronically or printed form, or both); and
- (iii) whether all recipients receive the research at the same time.

Public comments (Section 3617)

For the purposes of Rule 3600, a public comment includes any comment made by a Dealer Member's employee about a security or issuer during any of the following:

- (i) a seminar;
- (ii) a public forum (including an interactive electronic forum);
- (iii) a radio or television interview;

- (iv) any other public speaking activity; or
- (v) the writing of a print media article in which an employee comments about an issuer or security.

The Dealer Member meets the requirement by providing guidelines and training for any employee or agent making a public comment. The employee or agent of the Dealer Member meets the requirement by making reasonable efforts to disclose the existence of any relevant research report — or the fact that one does not exist.

Trading restrictions (Section 3618)

The trading restrictions on individuals who prepare research reports do not apply to fixed income research reports that only discuss classes of issuers or sectors of the market. The restrictions apply in the case of reports that contain security specific recommendations – not to sector or class recommendations.

Revenue-based compensation (Section 3619)

Disclosing an analyst's compensation from investment banking revenues does not include compensation based on the overall revenues or profits of the Dealer Member, which may include investment banking revenue or profits.

BEST PRACTICES – PREPARATION OF RESEARCH REPORTS

In each research report, Dealer Members should:

- (i) clearly distinguish between the analysts' own assumptions and opinions and the information the issuer provided or obtained elsewhere;
- (ii) disclose the name of the expert in the research report or recommendation when an analyst relies on a report or study by a third-party expert;
- (iii) set price targets for recommended transactions along with the appropriate disclosure;
- (iv) use the specific securities terminology that applicable securities laws require. If the laws do not require securities terminology, use the specific technical terminology relevant industry, professional association, or regulatory authority requires. If specific terminology is not mandated, a Dealer Member should use terminology that is customarily in use. A Dealer Member may also include a glossary of terms.

Dealer Members should adopt standards for research coverage to be followed in the preparation of all research reports. Current financial estimates and recommendations on securities followed by the Dealer Member should be maintained and published. The Dealer Member should review these estimates and recommendations within a reasonable time after an issuer's release of material information or other relevant occurrence.

Dealer Members should make research reports widely available, through websites or otherwise, to all clients at the same time.

BEST PRACTICES – RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

Rule 3600 requires each Dealer Member to supervise the activities and review the content of research reports that are provided to clients. When the number of research analysts requires it, a Dealer Member should appoint additional supervisory analysts to oversee research reviews. A Dealer Member should ensure that supervisors, and other analyst employees, have a Chartered Financial Analyst designation or other appropriate qualifications.

Section 3620 requires each Dealer Member to have policies and procedures in place to restrict the influence of the investment banking department on the activities of the research department. As a best practice, no one in the research department should report to the investment banking department.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3700-1

REPORTING TIME AND METHODS

Rule 3703 requires Dealer Members to report certain types of events to IIROC, within the time and method prescribed by IIROC. This Guidance Note sets out the time period and method by which each of the following events should be reported:

I. REPORTING TIME PERIOD AND METHOD:

Any changes in the registration information of an Approved Person -3703(1)(i)

GUIDANCE NOTE 3700-2

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS-RULE 3700

What is a service complaint?

A service complaint is one which is founded on customer service issues and is not the subject of IIROC rules or standards. What is or is not a service complaint will depend on the context of the particular situation, however, a breach of IIROC rules cannot be said to be a service complaint.

Will the information be made public and who will have access to the information?

There is no current plan to make the information public. However, IIROC's position is subject to change based on decisions at the legislative and Securities Commission level.

The Securities Commissions, by virtue of their oversight role, and other Canadian securities regulatory bodies may have access to Rule 3700 information.

Is a Dealer Member required to report under Rule 3700 for persons other than a Partner, Director, Officer or Registered or Approved person of the Dealer Member?

Rule 3700 requires the reporting of matters pertaining to partners, directors, officers or registered or approved persons of the Dealer Member. Dealer Members are not required to report matters related to employees who do not fall within the above categories, however, Dealer Members may voluntarily report such matters should they choose to.

Do daily trade monitoring procedures fall under an internal investigation and require reporting?

Routine daily and other regulatory monitoring will not trigger Internal Investigation Reporting unless it appears that there is a violation related to "theft, fraud, misappropriation of funds or securities, forgery, money laundering, market manipulation, insider trading, misrepresentation or unauthorized trading" as per Section 3706.

If the inquiry by the Dealer Member reveals that there appears to be a violation related to the above serious set of offences, then Section 3706 requires a thorough internal investigation. The Internal Investigation must be reported when commenced and the results of the internal investigation must be reported upon conclusion of the investigation.

Will Termination Notices also have to be submitted through the Registrations Department and ComSet?

Information in a Termination Notice is not specifically required to be reported through ComSet unless the content of the notice falls within Rule 3700 reportable matters.

Are complaints about good faith trading errors reportable?

A complaint based on a "good faith trading error" would be reportable as a trading error as it is not a service complaint.

If Approved Persons are dually employed by the Dealer Member as well as the Dealer Member's parent bank, is the Dealer Member required to report internal investigations surrounding the Approved Person's bank related activities?

Internal investigations surrounding the Approved Persons' "banking activities" are reportable if the internal investigations are related to theft, fraud, misappropriation of funds or securities, forgery, money laundering, market manipulation, insider trading or unauthorized trading.

Are denials of exemption applications reportable?

Rule 3700 does not require reporting of denials of exemption applications. Denial of an exemption application simply means that the Approved Person will have to follow the normal course of registration rules and would not raise a red flag and would not trigger a reporting requirement.

What consents will Dealer Members need to obtain from the Approved Person before submitting information pursuant to Rule 3700?

Approved Persons submit to the jurisdiction of the IIROC when they sign the Self Regulatory Organization Certification, therefore Dealer Members do not have to expressly solicit the consent of Approved Persons prior to submitting information pursuant to Rule 3700 as consent is implicit. Dealer Members may wish to consult the applicable privacy legislation.

Why is there no good will settlement category?

IIROC is aware that settlements are often reached as a goodwill gesture and will not assume wrongdoing by the mere fact of a settlement. A goodwill settlement category was not created as it could have lead to excessive and/or inconsistent use of the category.

Will the information provided be secure?

ComSet has been developed to ensure "bank-like" security of the information

Can a record be deleted or updated after it has been submitted in ComSet?

Once a report is submitted, it cannot be deleted. Users may view the records that they have entered into the ComSet system and, depending on the access level of the user, they may update a record.

If a record is updated, can the updates be tracked?

The ComSet system has a Document Audit trail whereby a complete edit history of the record is shown. This history includes the date stamp, time stamp and User Name of the person who edited the record.

What will the IIROC do with this information?

ComSet is a tool that is used by the IIROC in its risk-based approach to compliance and enforcement. ComSet assists IIROC in fulfilling its oversight function by improving its ability to identify areas for compliance review, areas where enforcement action is appropriate, industry problems, and regional issues. ComSet will promote higher standards of business conduct and ethics and will ultimately enhance investor protection.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3700-3

CLIENT COMPLAINT HANDLING

COMPLAINTS GENERALLY

The fair and timely handling of client complaints is vital to the overall integrity of the investment industry. Dealer Members should regard the handling of all client complaints as an essential element of the proper servicing of client accounts generally. Addressing client complaints fairly and on a timely basis demonstrates to clients that their issues are dealt with seriously and enhances investor confidence in the industry. An effective framework for dealing with client complaints is in keeping with appropriate standards of professionalism for the industry.

As a result, it is important that Dealer Members establish policies and procedures to deal effectively with client complaints. Such policies and procedures must address the general requirements of section 3720, and the specific requirements of sections 3721 to 3728 regarding client complaint handling. Section 3720 requires Dealer Members to provide a written response to all complaints made in writing. Further, where a written complaint does not relate to a matter within the scope of sections 3721 to 3728, section 3720 also requires that the Dealer Member resolve and respond to the complaint within a reasonable time frame.

COMPLAINTS SUBJECT TO THE REQUIREMENTS OF DEALER MEMBER RULE 2500B

GENERAL

Alleged misconduct

The types of allegations enumerated in the Rule are not an exhaustive list of all matters that may constitute alleged misconduct; other matters may constitute alleged misconduct. Alleged misconduct includes such other matters that relate to client accounts or client dealings with Dealer Members which are of a serious nature and warrant being dealt with through the formal complaint handling process.

Recorded expression of dissatisfaction

A recorded expression of dissatisfaction includes any written submission, electronic communication, or verbal recording.

Verbal expression of dissatisfaction

As set out in the Rule, verbal expressions of dissatisfaction alleging misconduct where a preliminary investigation indicates that the allegation may have merit are to be treated as a complaint subject to the Rule. Implicit in this requirement is the need for Dealer Members to expeditiously undertake a preliminary investigation in order to assess the merits of a verbal expression of dissatisfaction. It is expected that such a preliminary investigation will entail a summary assessment of the merits of a client complaint, and that it will not involve the type of investigation undertaken once a complaint is being dealt with under the formal complaint handling process.

Where a preliminary investigation of a verbal expression of dissatisfaction has been performed and the Dealer Member determines:

1. that there is evidence to indicate that the client complaint may have merit, the complaint should be treated in the same manner as a recorded expression of dissatisfaction. In accordance with its normal investigative process, the Dealer Member may request that the client document the complaint in a recorded form, however a substantive response must be sent within the required timeframe whether or not a client has provided a documented complaint in response to such a request.
2. that the nature of the client complaint is unclear or there is no evidence to indicate that the client complaint has merit, the Dealer Member shall request that the client document and submit the complaint in a recorded form. Where the client:
 - (a) documents and submits the complaint in recorded form, the complaint should be treated in the same manner as if it had originally been submitted as a recorded expression of dissatisfaction; or
 - (b) fails to document and submit the complaint in recorded form, the Dealer Member may exercise their professional judgment and terminate their investigation of the complaint.

Decision to not investigate a complaint or to terminate an investigation of a complaint

A sales supervisor / compliance staff or the equivalent may exercise their professional judgment in deciding whether a complaint requires an investigation. In assessing whether a complaint should be investigated, Dealer Members must consider whether the client would have a reasonable expectation that the complaint should be handled through the process outlined in the Rule. The decision and reason not to commence an investigation of a complaint must be fully documented and maintained in accordance with the complaint record retention requirements.

Complaints made by individuals who are not clients of the Dealer Member are not subject to the Rule, other than complaints submitted by a person authorized to act on behalf of a client. Written client authorizations, as well as formal legal documents, such as powers of attorney or court appointments, are acceptable forms of documentation for establishing a person's authority to act on behalf of a client.

DESIGNATED COMPLAINTS OFFICER

The designated complaints officer is not a registered individual position. The purpose of the position is to ensure that the Dealer Member has someone with the requisite knowledge, experience and authority in place to manage the proper handling of complaints.

Dealer Members may choose to name the Ultimate Designated Person or Chief Compliance Officer or an individual acting in a supervisory capacity over the complaints process for the position of designated complaints officer.

Dealer Members are encouraged to make available to the designated complaints officer and their staff specific training relating to dispute resolution.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURES / STANDARDS

Client access

The information provided to clients on an ongoing basis would include the first point of contact in submitting a complaint and the contact information for the designated complaints officer. The information provided may include the stipulation that the designated complaints officer should generally only be contacted when a complaint had been submitted and the client wishes to express concerns with the handling of the complaint. All client complaints must be handled by qualified sales supervisors/compliance staff or the equivalent. Under no circumstances should individuals who are the subject of a complaint handle complaints made against them.

Complaint substantive response letter – timelines

The ninety (90) calendar days timeline to provide a substantive response to clients must include all internal processes (with the exception of any internal ombudsman processes offered by an affiliate of the firm) of the Dealer Member that are made available to the client that involve but are not limited to the supervisory function / branch management, the compliance function, and legal review.

Complaint substantive response letter - OBSI information

Member firms must inform clients that OBSI will consider a client complaint at the earlier of:

- (i) the date the complaint substantive response is provided to the client; or
- (ii) ninety (90) days after the receipt of the complaint.

This can be done, depending upon the status of the complaint, either as part of the substantive response letter or as part of any letter informing the client that the complaint will not be resolved within ninety (90) days.

Duty to assist clients in documenting complaints

Dealer Members should be prepared to assist clients in submitting a complaint, in particular if the client is handicapped in any way, is a senior with special needs or a language or a literacy issue is involved.

COMPLAINT RECORD RETENTION

Records in a central, readily accessible place must be retrievable within two (2) business days and documents kept for an extended period of time must be retrievable within five (5) business days unless there are reasonable, extenuating circumstances.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3800-1

ELECTRONIC BUSINESS RECORDS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note contains information about electronic communications by Dealer Members, specifically:

- (i) electronic delivery of documents to clients under Rule 3800; and

- (ii) the use of electronic or digital signatures for agreements, contracts or transactions.

ELECTRONIC DELIVERY OF DOCUMENTS

A Dealer Member may communicate electronically with a client if Corporation requirements refer to a “written acknowledgement” by the client or “notice” from the Dealer Member or client. All disclosures required on confirmations and statements, including the fine print on the back of the document, must be included if delivered electronically. A Dealer Member may not communicate electronically with a client if Corporation requirements refer to a client’s “consent” or if the client’s signature is required, unless such electronic signature is legally valid. This is discussed under “Use of Electronic or Digital Signatures” below.

Prerequisites for Electronic Delivery

A Dealer Member must notify the Corporation before implementing an electronic delivery system, setting out the degree of compliance with National Policy (NP) 11-201 and any deviations from it. This notice must include:

- the documents to be transmitted electronically and the information they contain;
- the method of electronic delivery;
- a copy of any electronic forms or website screens that the Dealer Member will use;
- the procedures to obtain client consent and the form of the consent;
- the procedures to ensure adequate record retention and audit trails;
- back-up procedures;
- time during which documents will be available electronically;
- procedures for allowing third-party access to client communication when authorized; and
- identification of situations when it is important that clients acknowledge notices and back-up procedures to ensure the notice is brought to the clients’ attention.

A Dealer Member must take reasonable precautions to ensure the integrity, confidentiality and security of personal information sent electronically. Personal information includes confirmations, account statements and other documents specifically identifying the client. A Dealer Member must ensure that the information cannot be tampered with or altered.

In addition to this Guidance Note, Dealer Members should consult National Policy 11-201, Delivery of Documents by Electronic Means that has been adopted by all Securities Commissions as guidelines for electronic communication. The Policy does not mandate any particular procedure or rules, allowing Dealer Members to determine their own processes. The Policy sets out four components to electronic delivery that should be satisfied in order to constitute good delivery.

National Policy 11-201 applies to documents that are required to be delivered under applicable securities laws. It does not apply to the electronic delivery of documents that are provided voluntarily to clients, although Dealer Members may wish to conform to their procedures for both types of documents.

The rest of this Guidance Note summarizes the components of NP 11-201 applicable to electronic delivery.

Notice of delivery

The intended recipient should have notice of the electronic delivery of the document. Notice may be affected in any manner, electronic or non-electronic, such as electronic mail, telephone or communication in paper form.

Some forms of electronic delivery may not require a separate notice, such as delivery by electronic mail where the mail itself is sufficient notice. In cases where a document is available on a website for downloading, clients should be notified of its availability.

Access

The intended recipient of the document should have easy access to the document. The delivering Dealer Member should ensure that:

- (i) Electronic access is not burdensome or overly complicated;
- (ii) The document should remain available to recipients for an appropriate period of time;
- (iii) The recipient should be able to retain a permanent record of the document; and
- (iv) A paper version of every electronic document is available upon request.

While Dealer Members are entitled to operate in an electronic environment, we caution Dealer Members that they must comply with all applicable securities legislation in the conduct of their business. Failure to deliver a paper version of documents may constitute a breach of their obligations under securities legislation. We recommend that Dealer Members continue to make available, at no cost to clients, paper versions of documents if clients so request.

Evidence of delivery

Consent received from the recipient is evidence of delivery. In the absence of consent, a delivering Dealer Member may obtain other evidence of delivery; for example, the fact that a document was sent via e-mail and not returned may be sufficient.

Delivery of an unaltered document

A deliverer should ensure, to the extent possible, that no alteration or corruption of a document occurs during electronic delivery. Deficiencies in the completeness or integrity of an electronically delivered document will raise questions as to whether the document has been delivered.

Consent

A Dealer Member may satisfy the Notice of Delivery above, by obtaining the informed consent of the client and delivering the document in accordance with that consent. The consent will create the inference that:

- (i) the recipient will receive notice of the electronic delivery of the document;
- (ii) the recipient has the necessary technical ability and resources to access the document; and
- (iii) the recipient will actually receive the document.

A Dealer Member may obtain a “blanket” consent that would be applicable to purchases of all new issues or mutual funds. The consent must indicate how notice will be given to clients of documents which are posted on a website. This may be satisfied by a client’s consent to monitor the website on a regular basis, thereby eliminating the need for the Dealer Member to give notice. Consent is not necessary; however, in the event of a dispute, a Dealer Member has the burden of proving that the recipient received notice and actually received the document. A client can revoke consent at any time. A client has the sole discretion to receive documents electronically or in paper form. A sample consent form can be found in Appendix A to National Policy 11-201.

National Policy 11-201 states that electronic and paper delivery should be made contemporaneously.

USE OF ELECTRONIC OR DIGITAL SIGNATURES

The Corporation will recognize electronic signatures in those jurisdictions where they are legally valid. Dealer Members are advised to refer to the applicable provincial legislation to ensure that they satisfy the requirements (see list of provincial legislation below). The Dealer Member must also have the appropriate technological capabilities. This will include a requirement that the technology guarantees non-repudiation of the signature by the signer.

Dealer Members must note that consent is required prior to the use of an electronic signature. This consent may be implied from the person’s conduct if there are reasonable grounds to believe that the consent is genuine and is relevant to the information or document.

Most provincial legislation clarifies that an electronic signature does not have to look like a “physical” signature in order to be valid. For example, the signature can be a code, sound or symbol of any kind and could be part of or separate from the document it signs, as long as the association with the document is clear.

There does not appear to be a restriction or limitation on the use of an electronic signature for electronic contracts. As long as the association of the electronic signature with the person and the document is established and the intent to sign is demonstrated, the electronic signature will be valid.

Some specific legislative requirements are:

- A document or information in electronic form must be accessible by the other person so as to be usable for subsequent reference;
- A document or information in electronic form must be capable of being retained by the other person;
- A document or information in electronic form must be organized in the same or substantially the same way as the specific non-electronic form;
- The electronic signature is reliable for the purpose of identifying the person; and
- The association of the electronic signature with the relevant electronic document is reliable.

In respect of these two latter points, the requirements will not be satisfied by the acceptance of an e-mail from a client nor by use of a Dealer Member's password protected web-site.

A Dealer Member must obtain a legal opinion that confirms that the Dealer Member's digital signature technology and system satisfied the legislative requirements in the jurisdictions it is intended to be applied. A Dealer Member may supply its own opinion or one from a certification authority that generates and assigns keys under a public key infrastructure (PKI) and issues certificates which serve to identify and authenticate the signer and his/her associates with the public key. FundSERV is an example of a PKI initiative by serving as a certification authority.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3800-2

CONTENT AND RETENTION OF BOOKS AND RECORDS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note addresses the content of records a Dealer Member is required to maintain under Rule 3800 and the retention of records relating to supplementary information used in the preparation of the Monthly Financial Reports (MFR).

CONTENT OF RECORDS

Rule 3800 requires a Dealer Member to maintain adequate books and records for audit trail, compliance and reporting purposes. This Guidance Note sets out what the Corporation considers “adequate” for certain of these records.

Blotters

The blotters a Dealer Member is required to maintain pursuant to section 3806 may be produced as separate data files and daily reports, recording each type of transaction such as purchases versus sales, unlisted investment products, bonds, cash receipts, cash disbursements and stock record journals.

- (1) As a minimum, the blotter for trades in securities should show:
- (i) the name, class and designation of the securities;
 - (ii) the number, value or amount of securities;
 - (iii) the unit and total purchase or sale price (if any);
 - (iv) the trade date;
 - (v) the settlement date;
 - (vi) the commission;
 - (vii) the accrued interest, if applicable; and
 - (viii) the name of the counterparty.

- (2) As a minimum, the blotter for trades in options should show:
- (i) the type of option (put or call);
 - (ii) the name of the underlying security;
 - (iii) whether the transactions are opening or closing transactions;
 - (iv) the premium
 - (v) the number of shares or underlying interest,
 - (vi) the expiry month and year;
 - (vii) the strike price; and
 - (viii) the marketplace upon which the transaction took place.

A Dealer Member must maintain a record of all puts, calls, spreads, straddles and other options in which it has a direct or indirect interest, or which it has granted or guaranteed.

This record must include any letters relevant to the options, including those sent to clients or received from them.

- (3) As a minimum, the blotter for trades in futures contracts should show:
- (i) the commodity and quantity bought or sold;
 - (ii) whether the transactions are opening or closing transactions;
 - (iii) the expiry month and year;
 - (iv) the contract price;
 - (v) the futures exchange; and
 - (vi) the name of any dealer (if any) that acted as the Dealer Member's agent for the trade.
- (4) As a minimum, the blotter for trades in futures contract options should show:
- (i) the type and number of the option;
 - (ii) whether the transactions are opening or closing transactions;
 - (iii) the premium;
 - (iv) the futures contract that is the subject of the option;
 - (v) the expiry month and year of the futures contract option;
 - (vi) the declaration date;
 - (vii) the strike price;
 - (viii) the futures exchange; and
 - (ix) the name of any dealer (if any) that acted as the Dealer Member's agent for the trade.

Position Records

A Dealer Member may keep separate position records for equities, debt and derivatives.

Record of Orders Received

In order to show an adequate record of the order, a record of an omnibus order must show a breakdown of individual accounts and quantities.

Monthly Calculation of Excess Capital

If a Dealer Member with substantial excess capital applies more stringent rules, the Dealer Member may omit detailed schedules and analyses that support the calculation. For example, a Dealer Member may group inventories into broader margin categories, apply maximum margin rates, ignore offsetting provisions and exclude assets that are partially allowable or of questionable value.

RECORD RETENTION FOR EXAMINATION PURPOSES

Records must be retained in a readily available location. After the prescribed time limits expire, the records may be placed in long-term off-premises storage subject to industry and statutory records retention guidelines.

Due to the fact that record retention requirements differ under different legislation and those retention periods may be changed from time to time, it is suggested that record retention periods for specific type of records should be reviewed from time to time to ensure its continued accuracy.

In addition to the filing document, a Dealer Member must retain supporting documentation in sufficient detail to enable Corporation Examiners to verify the accuracy of the reports and questionnaires. Included with these documents are items such as:

- (1) The trial balance (general ledger, clients, brokers and inventory sub-ledgers)
- (2) Status slips;
- (3) Clearing reports;
- (4) Exception and delinquency reports;
- (5) Inventory and client margin reports;
- (6) Interest and dividend reports;
- (7) Security count and reconciliation sheets;
- (8) Segregation control reports;
- (9) Security position record; and
- (10) Working papers required to substantiate the daily or weekly capital calculations and to monitor early warning.

The records required under Rule 3800 must be kept for a minimum of seven years and in accordance to National Instrument 31-103 ("NI 31-103") unless Corporation Rules allow for a different retention period. Under NI 31-103, records required to be kept include, but are not limited to, records that do the following:

- (1) permit timely creation and audit of financial statements and other financial information required to be filed;
- (2) permit determination of the Dealer Member's capital position;
- (3) demonstrate compliance with the Dealer Member's capital and insurance requirements;
- (4) demonstrate compliance with internal control procedures;
- (5) demonstrate compliance with the Dealer Member's policies and procedures;
- (6) permit the identification and segregation of client cash, investment products, and other property;
- (7) identify all transactions conducted on behalf of the Dealer Member firm and each of its clients, including the parties to the transaction and the terms of the purchase or sale;

- (8) provide an audit trail for client instructions and orders, and each trade transmitted or executed for a client or by the Dealer Member firm on its own behalf;
- (9) permit the generation of account activity reports for clients;
- (10) provide pricing for investment products as may be required by securities legislation;
- (11) document the opening of client accounts, including any agreements with clients;
- (12) demonstrate compliance with Corporation Rules on know your client and suitability;
- (13) demonstrate compliance with complaint-handling requirements;
- (14) document correspondence with clients; and
- (15) document compliance and supervision actions taken by the Dealer Member.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3800-3:

CONTENT AND RETENTION OF BOOKS AND RECORDS

This Guidance Note provides Dealer Members with additional information about:

- (i) confirmations to clients of average price or accumulation accounts; and
- (ii) the pledge of investment products by the client to outside financial institutions.

AVERAGE PRICE ACCOUNTS

This guidance covers accounts where a Dealer Member accumulates stock to provide a client with a single fill at an average price.

Printing the unwinding trade

If a Dealer Member has a firm, time-stamped, client order and accumulates stock in an inventory account for administrative purposes only, the transfer of the position to the client should not be "printed" on an Exchange. There is no change in beneficial ownership as the client is the beneficial owner of the stock at all times.

If a Dealer Member is accumulating stock based on an indication of interest from a client, or an order with a contingency that has not occurred (e.g. an all or none order), then the client is under no obligation to purchase the stock. In this case, an unwinding trade(s) to the client should be printed on an Exchange as the Dealer Member is at risk while taking on the position (since the client is not the beneficial owner of the stock while in inventory). A Dealer Member may not use an error account to unwind the position to the client if the market has moved.

Confirmation to the client

It is preferable to give clients a confirmation showing each individual trade. If a client requests a single confirmation, it is acceptable to show the date of the trades as the date of the transfer to the client, even though the trades at the average price may appear to be outside the then current market.

Regardless of the process, a Dealer Member must retain records of each individual trade and of the transfer to the client. These records must be available to the client or the regulators upon request.

Carried and non-carried accounts

Type 3 and 4 Introducing Brokers are permitted to show both carried and non-carried accounts in the same monthly statement. The statement should separate transactions for and positions held in, each type of account. An explanatory note should state which account(s) each Carrying Broker carries and which accounts are not carried.

Sample disclosure for consolidated portfolio reports

A Dealer Member may utilize this sample disclosure or prepare its own disclosure:

"This [portfolio summary] is prepared from information we believe to be reliable. It is not an official statement of your investment product positions at [name of Dealer Member]. Some of the positions shown in this statement may be held at other financial institutions where they are not covered by the Canadian Investor Protection Fund (CIPF).

Please consult the monthly statements you receive from [name of Dealer Member] to determine which positions are eligible for protection by CIPF, including information as to the investment products held in segregation.

If there are any discrepancies between the transactions or positions shown on the monthly statements you receive from [name of Dealer Member] and those shown in this [portfolio summary], please report them to [contact name or department]."

PLEDGE OF THE CLIENT'S INVESTMENT PRODUCTS

Dealer Members should carefully review any arrangements whereby investment products are pledged or guaranteed to a lending financial institution to ensure that the investment products are properly recorded on the client's statement and the Dealer Member's stock records.

Client purchases on margin

A Dealer Member may finance client purchases on margin by arranging for a call loan directly with a bank and using that portion of the client unpaid investment products as collateral or pledge for the call loan. Under Corporation requirements the client statement must show the security transaction, the money balance and the security holdings of the client in segregation or non-segregation. The Dealer Member's stock record must show the location of all investment products held on behalf of clients, including those pledged to the bank.

Personal client bank loans and guarantees

When a client directs that investment products be delivered out of the account to a bank as a pledge against a personal loan, mortgage, etc. and the Dealer Member does not retain custody over the investment product, the client's investment products are no longer in the Dealer Member's control and must not be shown as a security position in the client's account or on the Dealer Member's stock record.

Where a Dealer Member, the client and the bank enter into a tri-party loan agreement between the client and the bank and the agreement requires that the investment product (under control of the Dealer Member) cannot be withdrawn from the client's account without the prior written consent of the bank, these security positions must be recorded on behalf of the client on the Dealer Member's books and records. This arrangement is used primarily to simplify tax event reporting by the Dealer Member on the client's security position.

SUPERVISION OF ACCOUNTS

INTRODUCTION

This Guidance Note sets out IIROC's expectations for Dealer Member supervision of client account activity. It provides guidance on meeting the requirements of Rule 3900.

Compliance with relevant business conduct requirements is primarily the responsibility of the registered representative. However, Rule 3900 requires each Dealer Member to effectively supervise all account activity to ensure compliance with IIROC requirements and securities legislation. The supervisory standards in Rule 3900 provide Supervisors with a checklist against which to monitor the handling of these responsibilities by the registered representative.

The Dealer Member's policies and procedures must provide for the screening of trading activity to detect issues for further enquiry or investigation. A Dealer Member is not required to enquire into or investigate every trade that meets the selection criteria in Rule 3900 or this Guidance Note, but must exercise reasonable judgment in selecting items for further investigation.

SUPERVISION OF RETAIL ACCOUNTS

Section 3926 requires a Dealer Member to establish and maintain written policies and procedures for supervising accounts that set out its standards of supervision and the steps to review account activity. This section provides guidance on meeting these requirements.

A. Supervisory Structure

An effective supervisory structure takes into consideration all factors necessary to ensure adequate supervision, including the products traded, type of trading, location of business and other functions of Supervisors. Where the Dealer Member conducts retail business in business locations outside its Head Office, it should consider the following:

- A resident Supervisor is in the best position to know the Registered Representatives in the office, know or meet many of the clients, understand local conditions and needs, facilitate business through the timely approval of new accounts and respond immediately to questions or problems. However, a Dealer Member may determine to what extent a resident Supervisor is necessary, considering factors such as:
 - The number of Registered Representatives in the location
 - The experience of Registered Representatives in the location
 - The nature of the business conducting in the location;
 - The availability of a Supervisor or Supervisors in nearby locations;
 - Other systems and controls mitigating the risk of remote supervision.
- Where a business location does not have a Supervisor working in the office, it must have an outside Supervisor assigned to it. The Supervisor must conduct periodic visits to the location as necessary to ensure that business is being conducted properly at the location.

While it is not always possible in a very small firm, a Dealer Member should ensure independent supervision of all retail accounts. A Supervisor's advice and trades for his or her own clients should be supervised by another Supervisor.

A Dealer Member must have in place an effective supervisory program to review trading in all accounts and to provide the needed supervision and compliance resources. In developing its program a Dealer Member should consider the following:

- A Supervisor who advises and trades for his or her own clients may not be able to devote sufficient time and attention to his or her supervisory role.
- If a Supervisor is not qualified to supervise trading activity in all products traded by those under his or her supervision and any other services that they provide to retain customers, a Dealer Member may divide the supervision between two or more Supervisors, provided there are appropriate mechanisms for them to communicate with one another, that the system ensures that the Dealer Member maintains an overall view of the client's situation and activity and that the assignment of responsibilities is clear and complete. One acceptable mechanism for doing so is the appointment of a primary Supervisor to whom the other Supervisor(s) provide advice with regard to the activity in the products or services the primary Supervisor is not qualified to supervise.
- Supervisors need information to properly conduct their supervision. For account reviews this includes readily accessible client information and full information about account activity including relevant non-trade activity such as receipts, deliveries, deposits, withdrawals and journal entries.
- A Dealer Member's supervisory system must provide for back-up during the absence of responsible Supervisors. For any prolonged absence of a Supervisor, the back-up Supervisor should be advised of any ongoing issues or concerns as necessary to provide proper supervision.

Section 3926 requires a Dealer Member to have written policies and procedures for supervising accounts that set out its standards of supervision and the steps to review account activity. IIROC recommends a two-tiered system of first and second level reviews as described in this Guidance Note.

A Supervisor should have sufficient authority to take effective and timely remedial action where account activity or any other matter under his or her supervision falls or appears to fall outside the bounds of proper conduct, just and equitable principles of trade or good business practice. Escalation for a decision by a more senior Supervisor or Executive will be considered an acceptable form of action.

B. Supervision of Account Activity

Effective policies and procedures will provide reasonable assurance that the Dealer Member is meeting its regulatory obligations, including those to clients such as suitability and gatekeeper obligations such as preventing market abuses. The following principles should be taken into consideration:

- Reviews may be conducted on a pre-trade or post-trade basis. A properly crafted pre-trade review process may obviate or lessen the need for post-trade reviews.
- Review procedures must cover all accounts. Where a Dealer Member offers both commission and fee-based accounts, it cannot select accounts for review solely on the basis of commission levels; it must also have a procedure for selecting fee-based accounts for review.
- Patterns of activity may not be apparent by reviewing trades singly. For example, a review of trading over a longer period may raise questions about the overall level of activity even though each trade, looked at singly, appears to be suitable for the client.
- Reviews must encompass non-trade issues such as late payment, margin problems, trade cancellations or transfers and flows of funds or securities that might be suspicious in nature.
- The selection of activity for post-trade review may be done using a risk-based approach reasonably designed to detect improper activity, provided the reviewer has access to all relevant information necessary to properly make the risk assessment. A risk-based approach can be used to determine the period of activity to be reviewed. For example, in some cases it may be appropriate to conduct reviews of activity over a monthly period; in others they may consider shorter or longer periods. Similarly, some customers may reasonably be assessed as presenting a higher risk of improper market activity such as those known by the Dealer Member to have access to material non-public information about issuers, holders of control blocks of public issuers and market professionals.
- All account activity of employees and agents must be subject to review.
- Reviews must be done on a timely basis, as established in the Dealer Member's policies and procedures. The timing should be reasonably designed to identify matters requiring supervisory attention as quickly as possible.

Reviews of activity in institutional accounts may vary depending upon type of product or customer, activity or level of activity.

It is acceptable to use computer analysis to assist in selecting activity to be reviewed.

C. Two-Tier Reviews

In a Dealer Member with multiple business locations conducting retail account activity, a two-tier system of post-trade activity reviews as described in this section is an acceptable structure.

The first-tier review will normally be conducted by a Supervisor at each business location having a resident supervisor. Such reviews may also be carried out on a regional basis or at a Dealer Member's head office provided that the systems and resources to conduct the review are available at the regional or head office and that the Dealer Member has adequate systems and procedures for dealing with any issues identified.

The Dealer Member's procedures for first-tier daily review of the previous day's trading must be designed to detect the issues described in section 3945. The review should be completed on the business day following the activity unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

A first-tier monthly review should cover the same areas as daily activity reviews. It may not be possible to review every statement produced. A first-tier monthly review starts with the selection, on a basis reasonably designed to detect improper account activity, of retail client accounts to be reviewed. A Dealer Member can meet this obligation by reviewing activity of all customers charged gross commissions of $1,500 or more for the month for trading in equity and fixed income products.

A first-tier monthly review should also cover all non-client accounts with any activity other than receipt of dividends or interest, or payment of interest.

This review should be completed within 21 days of the period being reviewed unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

The second-tier review will normally be conducted by the Dealer Member's Head Office, but may also be done regionally. The second level of supervision is generally not at the same depth as first level supervision. It should be reasonably designed to identify serious account problems that may have been missed by the first level supervision and to ensure that first level supervision is being adequately conducted. Where second-tier reviews are conducted by personnel or a department responsible only for monitoring activity, the Dealer Member should have procedures for referring issues that cannot be resolved by first-tier Supervisors to a higher level Supervisor who has the authority to resolve such issues.

The Dealer Member's policies and procedures should include criteria for trading activity subject to second-tier daily reviews. The following criteria would satisfy the requirements under Rule 3900:

- stock trades with a value over $5,000 and a price under $5.00 per share;
- stock trades with value over $20,000 and a price at or over $5.00 per share;
- bond trades over $100,000 value per trade;
- non-client trading;
- client accounts of producing branch managers;
- all client accounts not reviewed by a branch manager;
- trade cancellations;
- trading in restricted accounts;
- trading in suspense accounts;
- account number changes;
- late payments;
- outstanding margin calls.

Second-tier daily reviews should be completed on the business day following the activity unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

The following criteria for second-tier monthly account reviews would satisfy the Dealer Member's obligations under Rule 3900:

- accounts of customers charged more than $3,000 in commission during the month;
- accounts of all client and non-clients charged more than $1,500 in commissions during the month that were not subject to a first level review by the normal first level Supervisor, including the client accounts of producing first level Supervisors.

Second-tier monthly reviews should be completed within 21 business days of the period being reviewed unless precluded by unusual circumstances.

GUIDANCE NOTE 3900-2

SUPERVISION OF ACCURACY

TRADES MARKED RECOMMENDED/NON-RECOMMENDED

Introduction

Section 3981 requires that a Dealer Member that provides order execution only service in advisory accounts must have procedures to supervise accuracy in the marking of orders as "recommended" or "non-recommended". A Dealer Member may design its own procedures and reports, but the Dealer Member's systems must be capable of generating reports necessary to properly supervise the accounts. The following are examples of reports and procedures that would be acceptable.

Report Indicating Trade Marked “Recommended/Non-Recommended”

The reports used for daily trading review should indicate whether a trade has been designated as recommended or non-recommended. Supervisors or employees reviewing the reports should be alert to patterns suggesting trades have been improperly marked as non-recommended. Examples of these patterns are:

- (i) More than one client of an RR trades the same security on the same day (though note that such situations may be explained through wide-spread holdings or trading of the securities).
- (ii) Trades in securities that were covered in the Dealer Member’s research reports, or for which the Dealer Member has recently changed its research recommendation. While a research report is not determinative that an RR has made a recommendation, the RR should be questioned about use of research reports as a basis for recommendations.
- (iii) Crosses between client accounts of the same RR.

Statistical or Exception Reports

A Dealer Member should be able to generate statistical or exception reports capable of revealing patterns of trade designation. For example:

- (i) A report to show the percentages of trades designated as recommended and non-recommended by RR and branch office. High percentages of trades being marked as non-recommended may indicate inaccuracies; however, this depends upon the nature of the RR’s or branch’s business.
- (ii) A report showing the percentages of trades in particular securities designated as recommended or non-recommended. If the percentages are high, especially for securities covered by the Dealer Member’s research reports, this may indicate inaccurate marking. The report may be able to identify frequent trades by particular RRs or branches in one security over more than one day, all marked non-recommended.

Supervisor’s Responsibilities

Dealer Member’s procedures should provide instructions to supervisors on the requirement to review reports and the steps to take in investigating questionable patterns. Investigations should be documented as required by Rule 3200.

Where reviews are conducted at the branch level, head office must have review procedures to ensure the supervisory requirements are being met.

Frequency of Complaints

Supervisors should also review complaint reports to detect patterns of complaints of inaccurate marking of trades by a particular RR or branch.
