

I am opposed to this Proposed NI 31-103 regulation. I feel that I do not need any government intervention/regulations on any financial issues. This is an infringement on my rights and freedoms. I am perfectly capable of deciding where and with who I want to invest MY monies with. I made the money, so I should be able to choose what I want to do with it. And if I happen to lose it all....than that's my problem. I do not like the idea of divulging any of my personal information to just anybody. What about identity theft....how am I suppose to know that these are credible people/organizations that our information is going to.

On another note, what makes you think that investing in mutual funds and other financial institutions are any safer from embezzlement and other unlawful activities. And you people are supposedly the "watch dogs" for them with your regulations already in place. There's a long list of these types of activities that have gone on in the past where Fund managers embezzle monies or trade after hours and other illegal activities. I would much rather take the chance on people I know and trust personally than a financial analyst that you don't know.

Lise Paradis